Information Concerning

Dear Sir:

This investigation is predicated upon telephonic request made by Supervisor [redacted] of the Bureau. [redacted] requested that additional information be obtained concerning the Irish War Veterans organization, the Columbia Publishing Company, the National Chamber of Independent Merchants, and the Iron Veterans, inasmuch as previous investigation in this case as set out in the reports of Special Agent [redacted] dated October 4 and 6, 1939 at Washington, D. C. indicates that BEALLE was a member of all the above mentioned organizations.

At the Better Business Bureau, Star Building, [redacted] produced his file on the National Chamber of Independent Merchants. A review of this file indicated that this organization was incorporated in the District of Columbia on January 28, 1931 for a perpetual term, its object being for the mutual improvement of the independent merchants. In this file were several pieces of literature of the organization which had been transmitted to the Better Business Bureau by MORRIS A. BEALLE shortly after the organization was incorporated. One pamphlet gave the national headquarters of the National Chamber of Independent Merchants as Room 707 Smith Building, Washington, D. C. The officers are President-HARRY H. HALL, Vice President-CARROLL R. DODDRIDGE, Los Angeles, California, SAMUEL SHULTZ, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, CLAUDE W. HOPPER, Richmond, Va., and Secretary-MORRIS A. BEALLE, Washington, D. C. Specimens of membership certificates were also found in the file which indicated that a $5.00 yearly fee entitled any independent merchant to all the services, privileges, literature, emblem, and any other emoluments.

Information in this file indicated that on March 27, 1931 the Better Business Bureau informed several of its clients that "This is a newly formed organization which so far as we are informed has no affiliation with independent merchants, other than that obtained by itinerant salesmen. HARRY H. HALL, President, is a former employee of the State Department and was recently connected with a veterans' organization which was the subject of public criticism. The leading spirit of the enterprise is one MORRIS A. BEALLE, a former newspaper man. So far as this bureau can determine this is a self constituted organization with little or no financial or other backing". The file indicates that several clients were advised that the Better Business Bureau would report unfavorably on this organization. It appears that the organization proposed to further the interest of legislation in behalf of independent merchants in addition to which it includes an offer of free local legal service to members.

As a matter of interest and to further indicate the character of the officers of this organization, there is quoted in part a letter from the Chamber of Commerce at Reading, Pennsylvania dated March 20, 1931 to the Better Business Bureau, Washington: "In reference to a recent canvass of merchants of this town by a representative of the National Chamber of Independent Merchants, Washington, we have been informed that HARRY HALL, President of the organization, was formerly a professional lobbyist on veterans' matters. It is alleged that he passed petitions urging passage of the Veterans' Bonus Bill, and that he charged each signer of these petitions 10¢ to affix his name".

b7c [REDACTED] advised that to the best of his knowledge, this National Chamber of Independent Merchants had been a so-called racket and he continued that inasmuch as his organization had ceased receiving complaints concerning the activities of this organization shortly after it was organized, that he was sure that it had ceased to operate.

The files of the Better Business Bureau on the Irish War Veterans, indicated that on November 15, 1937 the Willard Hotel had made inquiry of the Bureau to determine the exact status and reputation of this veterans organization. A notation therein indicates that officials of the organization at this time were [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] whose phone number is given as National 3120, extension 515.

Inquiry of the Veterans of Foreign Wars disclosed that the Irish War Veterans was newly organized but that it was a national organization and had a favorable reputation.

The Better Business Bureau did not have a file on the Iron Veterans and had no additional information concerning BEALLE'S activities in the Columbia Publishing Company other than that set out in the reference reports of Special Agent [REDACTED]

b6

At Stone's Mercantile Agency, 1419 H Street, it was ascertained that their files do not reflect any additional information other than that set out in reference report of October 4, 1939 regarding the National Chamber of Independent Merchants, the Iron Veterans and the Columbia Publishing Company. They had no information concerning the Irish War Veterans organization.

At the Credit Bureau, 1221 G Street, Northwest, it was ascertained that they did not have any files on any of the above-mentioned organizations.

[REDACTED] in the Office of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Tower Building, was contacted by Special Agent [REDACTED] and he advised that the Irish War Veterans is a national organization of veterans of wars of the United States who are of Irish descent. [REDACTED] stated that it was his impression that this organization was rather small and its posts or chapters are located within the boundaries of the New England States.

[REDACTED] of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, 1700 L Street, Northwest, gave the writer the same information as obtained from [REDACTED]. He added that the local chapter has a membership of approximately 200 men and that the organization originated in Newark, New Jersey. He advised that he did not have the names of the officers but continued that a [REDACTED] was a former officer. It should be noted that the file of the Better Business Bureau indicates this same fact.

It should be pointed out that both [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] were contacted late in the afternoon and both advised that they had files on this organization which they were unable to obtain due to the fact that their stenographic force had left for the day.

MEMORANDUM

RE: MORRIS A. BEALLE

Morris A. Bealle is a white man, approximately forty-six years of age, and presently resides with his wife, Peggy, at 4715 15th Street, N. W., Washington, D. C. The home in which they reside is owned by Bealle's aunt, Mrs. Emily Frances Bealle, and also residing at this residence is Bealle's brother, Charles R. Bealle, a draftsman. Bealle's business address is 1003 K Street, N. W., the telephone number being NATIONAL 5045. Bealle resided in Washington, D. C., for about the first thirty years of his life; the next four years he spent in North Carolina, after which time he returned to Washington.

During the earlier years of his life, Bealle was engaged in newspaper work as a reporter. From 1920 to 1930, he worked, off and on, as a reporter for the Washington Times at a salary from $45 to $50 per week.

On October 30, 1930, Bealle filed a $50,000 damage suit alleging slander against Alexander R. Bolling to the effect that Bolling, a United States Army Captain, had slandered Bealle on May 23, 1930. It appears that Bealle was employed as a reporter on the Washington Times as of the above date and was assigned to cover the murder of Mary Baker, which was then being investigated by the local authorities. One Harold L. Brewster, a U. S. Army Private, was being held in connection with the murder. Bealle alleged in his complaint that on May 22, 1930, Robert J. Allen, who was investigating the homicide, visited Brewster in company with Captain Bolling and First Sergeant Shaw at the jail. Bealle's complaint further alleges he wrote a story for the Washington Times, issue of May 23, 1930, setting forth Allen's visit to the prison and that on the same date Bolling allegedly told Dan E. O'Connell, City Editor of the Washington Times, that Bealle's story was untrue and that Allen never talked to Brewster. Bealle alleges that as a result of this statement by Bolling to the City Editor, he, Bealle, was discharged from the Washington Times. This suit was dismissed in July, 1932, for failure on the part of the plaintiff to prosecute.

It has been previously noted that Bealle was employed intermittently as a reporter with the Washington Times from 1920 to 1930. During 1929, and while still working intermittently as an employee with this paper, he was associated with the Montgomery Independent, a newspaper at Rockville, Maryland, but did not remain in this position very long. It is noted that the November 9, 1929, issue of the Washington Star carried an article reflecting that Bealle, former Editor of the Montgomery Independent, was suing the Maryland Publishing Company, of which Major E. Brooke Lee, Democratic leader of the Maryland House of Delegates, was President, for alleged libel. The suit sought $75,000 damages and alleged that the Maryland News, published at Silver Springs, Maryland, by the defendant company, libeled Bealle in its issue of March 15, 1929. Bealle's attorney in this case was Harold C. Smith of Rockville, Maryland. It is noted that Bealle's paper was opposed to the regular organization, and it has been alleged that Bealle made almost slanderous statements therein. Lee, in his paper, is alleged to have called Bealle a "blackguard," and as a result of this Bealle sued for libel. On the recommendation of his attorney, Lee settled the case out of court and paid Bealle several hundred dollars.

An article appearing in the April 30, 1929, issue of the Washington Post, reflected that Bealle, together with three other editors of the Montgomery Independent, a Rockville, Maryland, newspaper, had been indicted by a Rockville County Grand Jury on charges of criminal libel, the other editors named being Harrison B. French, Walter W. Liggett, and Walter S. Casey. The indictment grew out of charges appearing in the newspaper alleging that Rockville County officials had "juggled" public funds and generally mismanaged County affairs. It appears that the Grand Jury investigated these charges and on finding no grounds for these allegations, returned the above mentioned indictments charging criminal libel. The indictments as to Bealle and Walter W. Liggett were nol-prossed after pleas of abatement entered by counsel for French and Casey had been upheld by the Court.

Since about 1931 Bealle has been connected with Plain Talk Magazine, Incorporated, 709 Carpenters Building, Washington, D. C. This magazine was incorporated under the laws of the State of Maryland with an authorized capital stock of $25,000 preferred, which was not issued, and 100 shares of common stock having no par value, of which 76½ shares were issued, $1,800 being paid in cash. The magazine is devoted to comments on political affairs and situations, and Bealle is the President, Treasurer, Editor, and principal stockholder of the corporation. The only employee in Bealle's office at 709 Carpenters Building is his wife. The rent of the office is $36.50 per month, half of this amount being paid by Bealle and the other half by John V. Evers who uses the office as a representative of the Institute of Knowledge. It is noted, however, that Evers has no business connection with Bealle.

A pamphlet advertising the Plain Talk Magazine stated that "the subjects which the new magazine will cover will range widely from birth control to municipal management; from prohibition to psychoanalysis; from national politics to public morals; medicine; crime; education; the press; the public mind. Always there will be a concentrated attack on common and uncommon fallacies. We shall be consistently opposed to all forms of censorship and the improvement of morals by drastic legislation. We ask the extreme and individual liberty that every man enjoy himself and do as he please so long as he does not infringe on any other man's liberty, enjoyment, and happiness."

The Plain Talk Magazine, it has been claimed, has a circulation of approximately 19,000 and it has been referred to as a "mud slinging and scurrilous publication," devoted chiefly to exposes and lobbying interests. It has been said about Bealle that he is "always after the dollar," has contributed to "pink publications," and in his reporting does not always stick to the facts.

Bealle is the author of the book entitled "Medical Mussolini," which deals with the American Medical Association and the alleged dictatorial rule of Dr. Morris Fishbein, of that organization. In a circular advertising the book it is stated that the author, Bealle, spent seven years of study of the subject prior to writing the book and that it was published independently after a two-year battle with medical and book trusts.

Bealle is associated with and has been active in the Irish War Veterans Organization locally and managed this group's soft ball team this past summer. This is an organization organized in 1934 and composed of approximately 200 members all of whom are of Irish descent. Bealle was also a trustee, together with D. E. Carter and Thomas Salter, of the Iron Veterans, an organization for the "mutual improvement of the veterans of the United States," which was incorporated on May 1, 1934, and is apparently now non-existent.

H-4

Bealle assisted in promoting an organization known as the National Chamber of Independent Merchants, which was incorporated on January 28, 1931, and the purpose of which organization was "the mutual improvement of the independent merchants." It was organized to fight the chain stores and it, too, is no longer in existence.

Bealle maintains a small, active, personal checking account, with a balance of less than $100, in a local bank. He possesses a fair credit rating, and his income has been estimated as between two and three thousand dollars a year at the most.

It is noted that Bealle has no criminal record.

Dear Mr. O'Connor:

I am writing a book for January delivery on some of the untouched-upon features of the last seven years of our country's history.

I was told by a mutual friend in New York last Sunday that the real reason for President Roosevelt's animus against your brother in the last election was that you refused to split $500,000 which you received from the United Aircraft Corporation several years ago for services rendered, and that Mr. Roosevelt thought that because he had been your law partner prior to March 4, 1937, he was entitled to a cut.

I will appreciate a line from you letting me know if this is true as stated, or in what respect it is erroneous. In so far as your name is concerned, this will be held in the strictest confidence.

I only want to be sure of my facts because some of the chips are going to land in high places down here in Washington. The source of my information is of no importance to my readers.

Awaiting your valued reply,

Sincerely yours,

Dear Sir:

This will acknowledge receipt of your letter of September 27th in which you state that you were told by a mutual friend here in New York, on Sunday, September 23rd, that the real reason for President Roosevelt's animus against my brother in the last election was that I had refused to split $500,000 which I received from the United Aircraft Corporation several years ago for services rendered, and that Mr. Roosevelt thought that because he had been my law partner prior to March 4, 1937, he was entitled to a cut.

You ask me to let you know if this is true as stated or in what respect it is erroneous.

As a rule, I never pay any attention to such nonsense, and I am deigning to answer your communication only because of the fact that it refers to the President and to my brother.

The statement is not true as stated and is erroneous in the following respects: I do not know anyone in the United Aircraft Corporation. I have never represented and do not represent United Aircraft Corporation. I have never received any fees or compensation whatsoever, directly or indirectly, from United Aircraft Corporation, and never had anything to split with the President from the United Aircraft Corporation, and the President never asked me to split anything with him at any time.

When I use the word "I," I also include my firm and my office.

MORRIS A. BEALLE

Background and Activities

The following information on the background and activities of Morris A. Bealle was obtained by the Washington Field Division in an investigation conducted during March, 1945, wherein Morris A. Bealle was a subject in a Fraud Against the Government - Bribery case. The records of Stone's Mercantile Agency of Washington, D. C., reflect that Bealle was born in Washington and spent approximately the first 30 years of his life in this city. Bealle lived for a short while in North Carolina and then returned to Washington, D. C.

During his earlier years, Bealle was employed as a newspaper reporter but was not associated with any particular company or paper. In July, 1927, he was employed by the Washington Times, a Hearst paper. Subsequent to this he became editor of the Rockville Independent, a publication with headquarters at Rockville, Maryland. In 1931, he was associated with the Plain Talk Magazine, Inc. This publication was incorporated under the laws of the State of Maryland, and according to the credit report was devoted to comments on political affairs and situations. A Washington Post clipping dated April 30, 1930, stated that Bealle together with three other editors of the Montgomery Independent, Rockville, Maryland, newspaper, had been indicted by a Rockville County Grand Jury on charges of criminal libel. The indictment against Bealle and the other defendants was nolle prossed on May 8, 1930. Bealle was never actually taken into custody in connection with the above indictment.

The records of the United States District Court for the District of Columbia, reflect that Bealle instituted a $50,000 libel suit against one Alexander R. Bolling of Washington, D. C. According to the records, Bealle claimed that Bolling was instrumental in causing him to lose his position with the Washington Times because Bolling denied a story written by Bealle on the murder of one Mary Baker. On July 28, 1932, the case was dismissed for failure to prosecute on the part of the Plaintiff.

Stone's Mercantile Agency files contain a report to the effect that on January 28, 1931, Bealle together with two other individuals was a trustee of an organization known as the National Chamber of Independent Merchants. The purpose of this organization was indicated to be the mutual improvement of independent merchants. Bealle was also a trustee of the Iron Veterans, an organization the purpose of which was the mutual improvement of veterans of the United States.

The records of the Credit Bureau, Washington, D. C., reflect that Bealle during 1944 resided with his wife at 230 Peabody Street, N.W., and was the father of one child. Bealle's wife was formerly employed by him in the Columbia Publishing Company, 1003 K Street, N.W., but during 1944 was employed by the American Automobile Association, 17th & Pennsylvania Avenue. During September, 1944, Bealle obtained office space in the Washington Building where he has set himself up as an author and publisher.

Bealle is the author of the following volumes: "Medical Mussolini," "Fugitives from a Brain Gang," "Medical Monopoly," and the "Washington Squirrel Cage." He has also been associated with Plain Talk Magazine as an editor.

Implication in Fraud Against the Government - Bribery Investigation

In January, 1945, information was received by the Bureau that Morris A. Bealle had written to a [REDACTED] the [REDACTED] to the president of the Ideal Publishing Company of New York City. In this letter Bealle stated that he was a publicity and promotion manager of the American-Democratic National Committee as well as an intermittent organizer. Bealle made the following statement in this letter, "I know a man here who makes a speciality of practicing before the WPN and has gotten several increases in paper allotments. What would it be worth to you per ton to secure a large additional quarterly paper quota?" This letter was dated August 27, 1944, and appeared on stationery which bore the letterhead American-Democratic National Committee. By letter dated January 4, 1945, the Department requested the Bureau to conduct a war fraud investigation as a result of the above letter. On July 12, 1945, this investigation was terminated and the Department advised of the results obtained. On August 7, 1945, Theron L. Caudle advised the Bureau that no criminal prosecution would be entertained, and that no additional investigation was warranted under the circumstances.

Miscellaneous

From time to time since 1935, Bealle has addressed letters to the Director requesting copies of the Uniform Crime Reports, suggesting investigation, and the like.

WASHINGTON SQUIRREL CAGE

by

Morris A. Bealle

The "Washington Squirrel Cage" is published and distributed by the Columbia Publishing Company, Post Office Box 1623, Washington, D. C., and its author is Morris A. Bealle. This publication, a 9x12 paper bound volume, is a biennial and sells for $2 a copy. The 1946 edition, a copy of which is attached, states on its flyleaf that the "Washington Squirrel Cage" is "The factual story of the Washington Scene from 1933 to date, sugar coated with breezy satire to forestall an epidemic of bursted blood vessels on the part of persons reading it."

The volume is a satirical attack upon the Roosevelt Administration and certain persons prominent in government and public life since 1933. Under the Part I heading entitled "The Collectivistas," the author employs the following headings for certain of the articles appearing therein: "Dodalebug Wallace" referring to Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of Commerce; "Me-Too (Harold) Stassen"; "Boob (Paul V.) McNutt"; "All American Heel," which refers to Drew Pearson, and "The Cockroach," which applies to Walter Winchell. There are many other such titles. The author lampoons and satires Harold L. Ickes, Senate Majority Leader, Alvin W. Barkley, Jesse Jones, Chester Bowles, the OPA, the OWI, and what he terms the Rockefeller crowd and the Morgan crowd.

"The Cockroach"

There is set out below excerpts from the article on Walter Winchell entitled "The Cockroach." The author launches a bitter attack against Winchell characterizing him as "The Cockroach" and the "inventor and developer of America's yellowest known type of yellow journalism - keyhole snooping, rumor peddling, political bootlicking and character assassination."

On page 21 of this volume Bealle quotes from the Congressional Record of March 22, 1944, the fact that Winchell's radio sponsor, Mr. Jergens' personal maid Elfrieda Margaret Siddell was interned, and another Jergens' employee Hedwig Engemann was sentenced after pleading guilty to aiding one of the eight German saboteurs. The author states, "Winchell has been as silent as the tomb on this subject, except to falsely claim in a single broadcast that Herr Jergens aided the FBI in capturing these two persons. The record shows that Jergens vainly interceded for at least one of them."

COPIES - 100

ENCLOSURE

Again on page 21 the author states, "The Cockroach often praises himself for alleged news scoops - often amounting to little tidbits of trivia. He has made it a point to attach himself to the unofficial staff of J. Edgar Hoover, head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, as a glorified bootlicker. The Big G-Man has often been made sick by fulsome buttering-up of his person."

On the same page Bealle begins the story of Winchell's alleged association with Owney Madden of the New York underworld. Bealle states, "Wallowing Walter bragged so much of his association with J. Edgar that some of New York's bigshot gangsters took him seriously. Then he began to pal around with certain members of the underworld. He even became a friend of Owney Madden, one-time Manhattan Vice King."

Bealle goes on to state that Madden told Winchell on one occasion that he intended to have a gangster known as Coll bumped off. As a result of this information, Winchell allegedly predicted in his column that Coll would be murdered six hours before the murder took place. The author claims that Madden threatened Winchell so that Winchell would not inform the police where he obtained his information. According to Bealle, Winchell bought his safety from Madden by paying Madden $90,000, and Bealle writes, "This is said to be the incident which prematurely greyed his (Winchell's) hair."

The remaining portion of this article is devoted to a criticism of Winchell's accuracy, the discontinuance of Winchell's column by the Washington Times-Herald, and adverse criticism by various individuals including Congressman Hoffman of Michigan.

"All American Heel"

In this article Bealle attacks Drew Pearson to whom he refers constantly as Drew Ananias Pearson and terms him a World War I draft dodger. The author states on page 18, "In the field of smearing good Americans and enemies of Communism Drew Ananias Pearson is only outdone by Walter-the-Cockroach Winchell."

Bealle claims on page 19 that 75% of Pearson's column is "Administration propaganda and 25% picayune gibble gabble. Throughout the Roosevelt stranglehold on America, Pearson was the main White House stooge and sewer-level rumor monger."

The article terminates with the statement, "All of the boys in the press gallery, except the Communist sympathizers and the 'New' Deal dog robbers have an abiding contempt for the person who has brought prostitution of their profession to its zenith. They say: 'When bigger lies are told Pearson will tell them.'"

The above two articles are among the more savage attacks published in the book. Other articles vary in the degree of their intensity of re-crimination. All individuals who are the subject of articles in this volume are satirized to a greater or lesser degree according to the personal opinion of the author.

Other than the excerpt above in the article entitled "The Cockroach," there is no mention of the Director or the Bureau. On page 45 there is a reference to "Hi Diddle Biddle, who made such a joke later of the Department of Justice."

NOTE: Bufile 62-55535 reflects that Bealle has authored several books including "Drug Story," "Fugitives From A Brain Gang" and "Washington Squirrel Cage." The latter book was a ~~satirical~~ attack on the Roosevelt administration and is very critical of Walter Winchell and Drew Pearson among others. In it he states Winchell attached himself to the unofficial staff of Mr. Hoover and said "the big G-man has often been made sick by fulsome buttering up of his person."

✓ Bufile 46-9751 reflects Bealle was subject of a FAG-Bribery Case in 1945. Bealle in a letter to a publishing company indicated that he could arrange for an increase in paper allotment from War Production Board upon payment of a consideration. Assistant Attorney General Caudle advised that no prosecution would be entertained. Back in April, 1930, Bealle was indicted in Rockville, Maryland, on charge of criminal libel. This indictment was nolle prossed.

The column of ^{PEARSON} ~~Winchell~~ to which Bealle makes reference allegedly disclosed classified ~~military~~ information pertaining to Chinese Communists and UN ~~men~~ ^{manpower} ~~back~~ in Korea. Information in this column was based on secret telecon messages dated December 6, 14, and 17, 1950, between MacArthur's Headquarters in Japan and the Pentagon. (65-59762)

WASHINGTON, D. C.

My dear 100% American:

Do you think Joe McCarthy was justified in rooting the Soviet spies, agents and saboteurs out of our Federal service? Do you agree with the Communist clique, in and out of the public press, that his "methods" (after all other methods failed) were "wrong"? Do you think Joe McCarthy is too rough on rats?

If you don't think the Wisconsin Wallopper is right, you will when you have read the book RED RAT RACE. And if you do, you will wake the echoes cheering him and other Sentinels of the Republic because---

RED RAT RACE tells the entire incredible story of the infiltration and sabotage of Stalin's agents in our government, our newspapers, our book industry, our schools and our motion pictures. No other book has done more than a fragmentary job. And none has placed the blame in those high places where it belongs, starting at the White House.

RED RAT RACE is the greatest product yet from the facile and potent pen of Morris A. Bealle, author, editor, political analyst and producer of that inimitable bi-ennial satire known as WASHINGTON SQUIRREL CAGE. It tells, in that effective, informative and amusing style for which Mr. Bealle is famous, just how and why and when and by whose connivance our country almost became a Soviet satellite state----and of the danger that still exists in this direction.

He pulls no punches in naming more than 100 prominent American politicians, newspapers, columnists, bureaucrats and other would-be big shots who helped Stalin try to subjugate our country and destroy the American way of life. He gives names, places, dates, methods, incidents. Among 1,000 or more astounding items---

He tells which First Lady of the Land deliberately created those 317 Communist actors, directors and writers in the Hollywood movie colony--and how and when. He tells which President ordered Congressman Dies to let Communists alone--and failed to either intimidate or bribe this intrepid Texan. He names 7 captive columnists of national repute who are towers of strength to the Red cause in America, and tells how Drew Pearson has been made into a Soviet transmission belt.

For only $3.00 you can get this full-sized book (which will sell for $4.00 when delivered in the Fall) if you act now on this prepublication offer. These chapter titles will show you that it an indispensable item for daily reading and an indispensable addition to contemporary history:

THE DEPRESSION

The Rockefeller-Eisenhower Administration, and its controlled press, did a "good job" of covering up (until after the election) a major depression that everyone in the distressed areas knew existed. For two years CAPSULE NEWS has been warning its readers of this condition and predicting that, unless a drastic upward spiral in our national economy took place before election the GOP stood a good chance of getting beaten. They were almost saved by the adoption by the Democratic convention of Chester Bowles' Creeping Communism platform. It took all of Nixon's incredible blunders and Nelson Rockefeller's treachery to his own party, for the Republicans to lose.

No sooner had President Kennedy gotten the seat of his pants warm on the Presidential office chair than he spilled the beans---and the controlled press had to print it. Some people think he exaggerated the unemployment situation a bit, but we doubt it. However, he certainly didn't minimize it and no one expected him to since it is always good politics to show the opposition up in a bad light. Here he had the GOP over a barrel, not only causing a major depression but lying about it. There are four organizations collecting unemployment data and still the picture is confused. We have tried to get the whole story as accurately as possible by combining the information received from the American Federation of Labor, the Area Employment Expansion Committee, the office of Senator Douglas who has worked up a bill he hopes will relieve the situation and the Dept of Labor.

The Dept rates an area where over 6% of the labor force is unemployed as a "distressed area." On this basis we have approximately 150 distressed areas in the US. Their latest report doesn't spare the Rockefeller horses. It calls this the worst depression since World War II, which means it is very bad. Senators Douglas, Dirksen and Scott have introduced bills "for the relief of unemployment." But, nowhere in Washington do we find discussed the reason for this Depression. In 1929, press agents for the House of Morgan (which caused it) blamed it on a mythical "world wide depression." Eventually the USA depression sparked a world-wide one.

STATE OF THE UNION (Democratic Viewpoint)---Senator Byrd of Virginia, one of the fast dwindling group of Jefferson Democrats, has come across with his own State of the Union message which makes much more sense than the ghost-written issue-straddling document given the Congress by President Kennedy. Some of the Byrdisms:

Centralization of government destroys freedoms and strength....With excessive centralization comes excessive central edict and regulation, excessive Federal competition and taxation, and the evils of state socialism....Basic requirements are constructive production, free competition, progressive development and sound financing....Our government is being challenged from abroad and undermined at home (Ed. Note: Too bad he didn't point out that it is the Rock Mob that are undermining us at home)....We are showing signs of weakness where we should be strongest....Our strength is being sapped by deficit financing indulged in too long, Federal paternalism grown too big, Supreme Court grown too "mighty," labor leaders grown too arrogant....Judicial usurpation of power has reached a peak in the Warren (supreme) Court, which is undermining our system of government, contributing to centralization of power and authority, sapping our national strength at its roots....When I came to the Senate in 1933 the US debt was $16 billion; today it is $290 billion; it has gone up $30 billion since the end of World War II....Continual national deficits and debt are among the prime causes of inflation....

Public Health

Many of those who aren't naive enough to believe everything they read in their "news"-papers, still believe an MD after a man's name makes him allwise in matters of health and longevity.

As one can tell from Stare's background and "writings" this is far from the truth.

True, there are few worse quacks than Stare, but still there are plenty of his stripe.

One Stare-ism shows the abysmal ignorance of the man:

"Don't let any food faddist tell you there is any difference between the Vitamin C in an orange and that made in a chemical factory."

Every doctor worthy of the name knows there is no such thing as a synthetic vitamin.

Just as only God can make a tree, and only God can make a baby, only God can make a vitamin. It must come out of the ground and not out of a vat.

Merck & Company was making some Vitamin A in a vat at their Linden (NJ) plant. Its ingredients were so explosive it blew up, wrecked the building and killed every man in it.

Stare evidently was trying to "neutralize" the news that came out of the Kefauver committee last June.

A former doctor in the US Food & Drug Admin told the committee that the MD's who examine food and drugs for toxicity and lethal qualities have to pass them as "safe" (and thereby please the large drug companies) if they ever expect promotion.

At that time a Food & Drug hoodlum named Welch was caught taking $287,000 from the Drug Trust, ostensibly for writing books he knew nothing about, but actually for certifying dangerous concoctions as "safe."

Welch, like Stare, signed his name with an MD as a suffix.

WASHINGTON

Dept of Sacrifices: In his inaugural address Pres Kennedy demanded the American people make sacrifices for "the critical era in which we live".... His first "sacrifice" was to provide more food (free) to millions of people....tho it is well known that many people who get these provisions free sell them and pocket the profits..... JFK's 2d "sacrifice" was to funnel more Federal dough into 100 areas.... His 3d "sacrifice" was to demand that we get medical aid under Social Security, which heretofore hasn't been a welfare dept....his 4th "sacrifice" demanded the taxpayers fork up a billion or more each year for new school houses which the states say aren't needed....his 5th "sacrifice" was the farmers be paid more money for crops they don't grow....his 6th "sacrifice" was that everyone with an intelligence level above that of an ox get free college training....his general sacrifice program came from Churchill and it sounded suspiciously like the Englishman's "blood and sweat and tears"....Sacrifices he didn't demand were that foreigners reject the $4 billions US taxpayers are stuck for each year on Foreign (Rockefeller) Aid, that the 1,000,000 payroll bums go back home and the 700 illegal corporations be abandoned and $50 billion dollars worth of assets be returned to the Treasury and that biggest of all boondoggles (Voice of America) fold up and let the taxpayers have the $100 billion a year squandered on this "project"....JFK is giving jobs to "the faithful" in NY thru Mayor Wagner...Pendergast and DiSapio (State chairman and Tammany leader respectively) are boiling.....and calling Mr. Kennedy other things than "Mister President"....The new Atty Genl says he is going to be a racket buster but only promised to go after smalltime criminals and racketeers... The real criminals are in Rockefeller Center, but apparently will not be touched....they are the boys who suborn the crimes of the Food & Drug hoods who look the other way when Rockefeller food and drug trusts rape the Wiley Pure Food & Drug Act....The electrical industry apparently has been purged of its price fixing criminals.....nothing has been said about purging the price fixers of the oil industry, which are dominated by the Rock Mob....every motorist in the country, all 30 million of them, are victims of the gas gouge....The GOP says that under Truman we got gov't by poker playing cronies, but that under Kennedy we are getting it by Harvard classmates....it was the late great Huey Long who once said "Harvard educates the sense out of people"McNamara's Band at the Pentagon is off on a sour note....they goofed when they told newsmen there was no "missile gap"....Kennedy campaigned loud and long with the premise the Republicans had let one develop..... now the Kennedy press agents say that after three weeks in office he has closed the gap....Kennedy plans to revive the food stamp plan.....

House of Rockefeller press agents have kept quiet about the cause of the 1960 Depression which they sparked with the Reciprocal Trade agreements that have destroyed a number of sectors of American business.

This destruction in turn has reduced the buying power of the American public until its most basic industry (automobiles) has taken a $6 billion tumble in the past year.

A million unsold automobiles represents a turnover of that amount.

Rockefeller-Roosevelt-Truman-Eisenhower Inflation, and a criminal over-taxation by a lamebrained Congress, plus the havoc wrought by competition with coolie labor (getting one-tenth the American wage), are the main causes of these 1,000,000 1960 automobiles remaining still on the dealer's floors.

This directly affects adversely the tire industry, the gasoline retailers, parts manufacturers and automotive shops of all sorts.

It is a vicious cycle but not as vicious as the hog combine in Rockefeller Center, that sparked it thru its Washington Lobby and huge financial contributions to Congressional and other political campaigns.

Twelve cities in North Carolina the textile manufacturing center of the world, are distressed.

In Massachusetts, New Bedford has 8,200 (12.3% of its labor force) out of work, Lowell 5,950, Lawrence 4,800 and Fall River 4,800.

Nearly all of these are $1.30 an hour textile workers, whose employers couldn't compete with Japanese-made textiles produced with 13.3% labor.

Providence (RI) is another area hard hit by Japanese competition with 38,900 (11.3% of its labor force) walking the streets looking for work.

West Virginia and all of Pennsylvania's soft coal regions were in trouble before the Reciprocal Trade Agreements put on the finishing touches.

You don't know the Facts of Life until you've read

THE NEW DRUG STORY

A sequel to Morris A. Healle's best seller which sold 32,000 copies by word-of-mouth advertising alone. The story of our $10 billion macabre Drug Trust, its stranglehold on your health, its dominance of the Kept Press thru advertising subsidies and its control of all health agencies of the US.

Three new chapters bring you the last word in the Drug Trust conspiracy against your health and pocketbook — SALT VACCINE, SODIUM FLUORIDE and PATENT NOSTRUMS.

It shows the American Medical Assn. as a willing well-paid tool of the large pharmaceutical houses, owned and controlled from Rockefeller Center in New York. And how this cartel of cartels (known as the House of Rockefeller) uses that $10 billion in national "advertising", which it lads out to the press, radio and TV, to "tailor", suppress, garble and distort news of health matters—in order to bring about the greatest possible sale of drugs, serums and vaccines.

Two hundred and fifty-one pages of exclusive information, vital to your life and health, that cannot be obtained anywhere else. Written in words anyone can understand. Cloth covered edition $5.00; paper back $4.00. Check, money order or currency in:

Instead of helping this area, the House of Rockefeller ruthlessly slaughtered its whole economy when it had like take the tariff off of Venezuela's residual oil but keep it on Standard Oil's gasoline and lubricating products.

Eastern Seaboard utilities, which used thousands of tons of coal, changed to residual oil because the Venzies can put it down at the port of New York for $6.40 (four barrels) while its equivalent in coal (a ton) costs $10.52 for the same.

Pennsylvania also has a number of manufacturing centers which have felt the pinch of depressed buying power.

Included are Erie with 15,300 out of work, Johnstown 14,840, Altoona 6,400, Scranton 16,500 (some coal) and Wilkes-Barre 23,700 (the same).

In Detroit 205,000 auto workers are on the streets and park benches because of the slump in auto buying caused by the general slump in purchasing power.

In the Chicago area, which has diversified industries, there are 350,000 reported job hunters.

Hagerstown, Md. (pop 36,000) reports 10,000 former aircraft workers looking for jobs.

The reason here is plain and the Reciprocal Trade Agreements have nothing to do with it. The Fairchild plant has shifted from making heavy bombers for the Defense Dept to missiles.

It takes 30 times as many men to make a set of bombers as it does a set of missiles with the same destructive power.

Los Angeles, which has many aircraft plants, is in the same boat but nowhere can we find any unemployment figures.

Its Chamber of Commerce seems to have been as successful in covering up this fact as it is in covering up its fogs, smogs, overcrowded freeways and rainy seasons.

DR. JO SAYS:

They fear that he will destroy the camouflage of sham, "philanthropy" which their publicity men and other agents have so cunningly and laboriously built up for them.

It is reported that this fear drove his father to liquid solace and to premature death.

Others of his kinsmen (and kinswomen) fiercely resent the intense glare of publicity that he has brought to bear on them; and they do not miss many opportunities to express their highly derogatory opinions of him and his activities.

This is significant, for it means that if we examine his conduct and activities, we may learn much to warn us of the Rockefeller menace.

And what does he show us? Let us skip, for the moment, his past vicious and subversive activities, and examine the current scene.

Nelson Rockefeller, like all so-called "liberals," has learned to hold in high contempt the stupidity, gullibility, cupidity and corruptibility of their followers who are the product of the discipline and brainwashing that they have exercised thru their propaganda subsidized by their bogus "educational philanthropies."

Their "philosophers," such as Ortega y Gasset label them "Mass Man, the only animal so stupid that he can be led to destroy himself."

But Rockefeller has had himself trained by theatrical producers, aided by ghostwriters, slogan writers, headline writers, Madison Avenue advertising crews and an endless array of other advisers and trainers, to simulate bonhomie and human conduct.

He has been taught by them a sneering, toothsome grimace that does not hide his contempt, which passes for a perennial smile.

Only under emotional stress does his true character, his madness, break through the mask that he has been taught to wear.

It was evidenced, for example, by the snarling facial contortions that broke up his wry efforts at smiling when Nixon was nominated at the Chicago convention.

It is evinced by the fact that during his gubernatorial campaign's supposedly "free mingling" with the "peasant" voters, he was always surrounded by a host of bodyguards posing as "the public."

Some of them were blackshirted Storm Troopers of the well-subsidized Nordic League.

I was beset and manhandled by one of them at the Court Square meeting called by him for the opening of his Brooklyn headquarters, because I asked a pertinent question of him after his speech in which he lauded "America's freedom."

I merely asked during the question period, whether I was "free" to ask him a question about his record.

It was evinced again by the manhandling by his Storm Trooper goons, and the subsequent arrest, of 2 hecklers in Harlem for "lese majeste."

Petty Chiselers

The petty chiselers are taking advantage of the Rockefeller-Eisenhower Depression to separate people, who have little money anyhow from what little they have.

The Federal Trade Commission has just cracked down on a phoney outfit which titles itself "National Employment Information Service," headquartered in Newark, N.J. Newark is right close to New York City, the racket capital of the world.

FTC ordered NEIS to cease and desist falsely claiming a knowledge of numerous available jobs and separating their victims from their savings by intimating they could get them good paying jobs.

Their method is to promise information which will lead to employment--free of charge. But when the victim is hooked then they say he (or she) must "subscribe" to their publications if they want employment.

The FTC described one of their publications which they called "Project Listings." This purported to list various construction and development projects in this country and abroad, together with "news" of the firms working on these projects.

The Commission cited "come on" ads inserted in newspapers and a form letter sent to all persons answering.

The form letter would talk about "hundreds of opportunities which arise in most job classifications every day" and tells the victims that "lack of knowledge of where, how and when to take advantage of these opportunities may be the only obstacle in the path of the job seeker."

Then, after the prospect is steamed up he is prey for "subscribing" to the publication which only tells him what any chamber of commerce or local newspaper could supply him with.

Semi-skilled or non-skilled workers have no chance of getting some of this listed "employment."

THE NEW 1960 WASHINGTON SQUIRREL CAGE

The Story of the Roosevelt-Truman-Eisenhower "New" Deals in Satire is the best of a long series of SQUIRREL CAGES, extending from 1940. It is the most important one because the platforms of both the Democratic and Republican parties provide for more chousing of our taxpayers than ever. If the voters do not alert their lamebrained Congressmen taxes will beat the Russians to hitting the moon.
SQUIRREL CAGE tells, in Morris A Bealle's inimitable combination of satire, fact and logic, the pattern of waste, profligacy, graft and international meddling that has all but ruined the US and bankrupted its taxpayers. The international meddling has a good chance to get us into World War III before we know it. Both parties are for the "Welfare State," a polite name for Creeping Communism. They don't like the American way of living and working and earning a living.
When you read SQUIRREL CAGE you won't be the most popular person in your community with the Welfare Staters, but you will be the best informed. You'll be able to tell your Congressman, in words he can understand, what is going on in Washington before his eyes. You may be the cause of his voting for America instead of the Creeping Jeppies of Eurasia. Send check, money order or $3.00 in currency to

A QUACK QUACKS OFF---Some news"-papers recently carried what looked like a syndicated health article by one Frederick Stare, MD, head of the department of nutrition of Harvard University, which Huey Long once said "educates the sense out of people." If Qk. Stare is a good example of Harvard teaching, then Harvard's curriculum is far more dangerous than it is senseless. We believe, however, Mr. Stare is an isolated case--he is that bad. We attended the frame-up of a New England distributor of natural vitamins whom the Drug Trust had sworn to put out of business because well people don't buy drugs.

Stare was the principal "witness" against the victim. The burden of his "testimony" was that people don't need vitamins. He said that the food that is denatured and made almost worthless by chemical fertilizers, and the processing process by the Food Trust, contained all the elements needed for good health. He didn't say that medical doctors' offices have been filled to overflowing since the Food Trust started the devitaminizing of super market foodstuffs. But this is a fact nevertheless.

Mr. Stare was asked what his definition of food was. He didn't know. He hemmed and hawed a while and finally said "Ar-h-h-h-, I guess you can find it in the Dictionary." This background will give you an insight into Mr. Stare's mentality when he wrote for publication the poisonous chemicals put in foodstuffs by the Food Trust to preserve and prettify it and make it bring more money to the Food Trust "are not harmful." Merck's Index, the Bible of the pharmaceutical profession, disagrees with Mr. Stare 100% as to the harmfulness of these poisoned chemicals. Mr. Stare unblushingly says "the poisons are in the pens and tongues of those who warn against these chemicals." (Contd. Inside Col. 1)

✓THE ROCKEFELLER MENACE Part 12 (By Emanuel Josephson, MD, Author of "Rockefeller Internationalist")---Nelson Rockefeller conforms to the picture of a Communist leader as it was conceived and enunciated by Adam Weishaupt. That ideal matches the pattern of monarch and absolute dictator drawn up by Machiavelli and followed by the Rockefeller advisor and spokesman (Hoffman Nickerson). Weishaupt dictated that his breed of "liberals" (he was the first to call them that; Franklin Roosevelt the second) must be shamelessly deceitful, crafty, cruel, ruthless, shifty, treacherous and devious.

He labeled ethics and principle "conservatism" and ordered his followers to spurn such honesty and forthrightness. He decreed that religion must be used as a camouflage behind which to mask subversive and criminal activities. Thus, it is understandable that Nelson Rockefeller unabashedly runs for office as a pretended Republican on a "liberal" Democratic platform. Due to the immense gangster power of the Rockefeller Dynasty, and the enormous loot it has amassed, Nelson was able at the age of 25 to set himself up as de facto dictator of the United States and the World, and to impose his will and whims by taking up the conspiracy where his father left off.

It is fortunate for us, if we profit and learn from it, that he was stupid and vain-glorious enough to deviate from his father's methods of criminal mastermind operating behind the scenes through gangster agents. John D Junior, and other members of the Dynasty, have had grave misgivings and have protested vigorously against Nelson's vanity that impels him to openly strut on the public scene as acclaimed boss and dictator. They fear the violent lash of public resentment against their criminal and subversive activities which they felt so keenly at the turn of the century. (Continued Inside Column 5)

BOONDOGLERS' LAMENT---Robert S. Allen, well known columnist and reformed member of the team of Pearson and Allen, put the Voice of America boondogglers in their places at a recent press conference. These drones, who have no legal business at all in a Presidential Press Conference, decided to pre-empt all the "good seats" and let the newsmen do the best they could in the rear. They put "reserved" signs on the first two rows in the middle of the auditorium.

Coming into the conference Allen got his dander up when he realized what was being done. He proceeded to remove a reserved seat sign, tear it up, throw it into the aisle and sit down. Pretty soon one of the boondogglers came along and said Allen had "her seat." "Like Hell I have," he boomed at her, "You bums don't have any business here anyhow. This conference is for newsmen." The boondogglers left and came back with a Secret Service man who asked Allen to move.

Allen suggested the SS man himself move---in the general direction of Hell. SS said "Let's don't make an issue of it." Allen said "I want to make an issue of it. Throw me out if you have the nerve." The SS man left, and that was that.

General Walker Un-Bugged

(AND A MISSISSIPPI JUDGE GIVES WITH SOME PLAIN TALK)

The psychiatric hospital to which the Federal scofflaws railroaded Gen. Edwin T. Walker, during their recent depredations at Oxford (Miss), has reported that he is as sane as anyone in the United States and accordingly discharged him. Most people feel that he is much saner than those members of the Kennedy family who jump into swimming pools fully clothed during parties in which alcohol flows too freely. It is well known to newsmen who covered the destruction of law and order in Mississippi by Federal authorities and thugs that Gen. Walker was bugged so that anything he told about what he saw on the University of Mississippi Campus would be discredited in advance.

What Gen Walker saw and has told privately would curl the hair of a brass monkey. He saw the Alcatraz Prison guards and toughies from the Mexican Border patrol, alleged to be US Marshals, start the campus riots. He saw them fire gas bombs into the inoffending students. He saw the breast torn off of a co-ed and the entrails of an unarmed State policeman opened up for "inspection." He saw students and co-eds alike driven from their dormitories onto the campus by gas bombs thrown in their windows by US marshals and deputy marshals. He saw these same students then charged with "rioting." Not a pretty picture. But even unprettier was the low estate to which the once staid old Associated Press descended. The AP stooped even lower than the American Broadcasting Company did when it pulled out of the motn balls Alger Hiss, the arch-traitor and top Russian spy, and let him spew forth some of the venom against Richard M. Nixon.

FIRST WITH THE NEWS.....AGAIN

WHY THE KENNEDYS WERE NOT INDICTED---Six weeks ago today "Capsule News", alone among the entire US Press, told how the University of Mississippi "riots" were engineered and triggered, but not engenerated. The first shot was fired into a crowd of curious, but neither lawless nor dangerous, students. The order to fire 7½-inch gas bombs into the crowd and into the dormitories was given directly by Chief US Marshal McShane after the crowd refused to oblige by getting disorderly and out-of-hand. The direct order to start the riot came to McShane from the Attorney General who had gathered in the White House with his brother and a direct telephone line to Oxford. The grand jury at Oxford (Miss) has corroborated this report of CAPSULE NEWS last week by at least 100 percent.

After being told by Judge Walter O'Barr that no criminal was immune from the Mississippi laws, no matter how high in the United States Government, and anyone who pulled a trigger that resulted in the killing of a human being, and that anyone who ordered this trigger pulling or who brought about an emotional situation which caused the trigger to be pulled, is guilty of murder in the first degree and it was the duty of the grand jury to indict him or them. This described perfectly the Kennedys and McShane, as outlined in CN October 13th. Bobby was in it up to his whiskers but Jack could have said his was a borderline case and he should be given the benefit of the doubt.

Thereupon a unique adaptation of an admission of guilt, such as a Communist taking the 5th Amendment, appeared in the judicial annals of the US. Atty Genl Kennedy sent an "SOS" to the US circuit court of appeals at New Orleans to grab Governor Barnett of Mississippi and railroad him on a criminal contempt charge.

Newsmen here say the Kennedys have made a great success of building up the Republican Party in the South.... After the GOP itself failed during 100 years of trying....The 88th Congress will show 3 times as many members of Congress from the minority party as the 87th....JFK says he's likely to establish a Domestic Peace Corps for the US....Many think its main purpose will be to provide $15,000 and $20,000 jobs for his in-laws....there are others who think he may want to "educate" the people so they will act like so many sheep when he starts civil wars by ripping the Constitution to shreds....Despite proof that cigarettes cause lung cancer the public is buying tobacco in larger and larger quantities....this is solely due to the lying type of advertising put out by T-V commercials....some of this is so silly it is nauseating....Cigarette copywriters vie with each other to think of sillier and sillier things to say in "support" of their product...."Managing the news" is said to be Harvadesque for censorship and the planting of downright lies in the Kept Press (which doesn't object very strongly)....Three Americans were arrested and quizzed by dictatorship police in East Germany...300 Americans were treated the same way by the Army of Occupation in Oxford (Miss)....New Frontier slogan: "Remember the Maine but forget the Bay of Pigs"....A man named Smith who got for not planting crops, has ridden the Cadillac and the issue into the NY legislature....It cost the taxpayers $790,000 to give $9,000,000 to Peru, so inept are the lamebrains in Washington whose chief "ability" is squanderlust....The $4 billion surplus predicted last January for 1962 by JFK, has turned out to be an $8 billion deficit....which is par for the New Frontier course....

The Kennedys had figured that one or both would be indicted after such a forthright and honest directive to the Grand Jury by Judge O'Barr.

As told in another column the circuit court took the Constitution and the law into its own hands and "ordered" the Justice Dept to "indict" Gov Barnett and Lt Gov Johnson for "criminal contempt."

The basis for this criminal contempt thing was the action of both Mississippi officials in barring McShane in his attempt to subvert the Constitution and the laws of Mississippi.

The Atty Genl put the cart a little ways before the horse. He said the Dept would move to take the case out of the hands of the duly constituted state courts of Mississippi and stage a mock trial in a Federal court.

In such a proceeding the judge would be ordered from Washington to declare the inditree "not guilty" by denying the state its right to a trial by jury.

Of course, a Federal judge, with his eye on "higher" things wouldn't disobey such an order, however illegal it might be.

There are very few Federal Judges like Judge Atwell of Texas, who considers his oath of office an oath of office, and knows his Constitution.

In saving their own hides the Kennedys let McShane take the rap, such as it is---or will be when the Dept of Justice gets thru subverting the law.

In addition a soldier from some NJ post, who had been sworn in along with the passel of thugs brought to Oxford as deputy marshals. This gang consisted of 97 prison guards from Alcatraz and Leavenworth and several hundred Border Patrols from the Rio Grande.

Newsmen report that there were few real US Marshals visible. These gentlemen, in past administrations, have been taught respect for law and order.

It was puzzling when it was announced that the Justice Dept was in no hurry to railroad Gov Barnett. In the light of the above information, this adds up.

The grand jury discovered that no riot was imminent, and that McShane had to bomb the students before there was a semblance of disorder.

They heard that the State Police had everything under control, and that two state senators and Gen Walker were mingling with the students and assuring them there was no cause for alarm, or aggressive action.

Their reporter, who had been sent down to Oxford with orders to lie about the situation and make the South look bad, stooped even lower.

He turned pimp and provided the affidavit on which the Dept of Justice ordered Gen Walker shanghaied and illegally bugged. He did even worse.

He signed a perjured affidavit charging Gen Walker with doing exactly the opposite of what he did.

As a result of that the Associated Press and its Pimp Reporter have been sued for a million bucks by the aggrieved General.

O

The first note of sanity to come out of the segregation hassle was the threat of Gov-Elect Wallace (while he was still a judge) to throw into jail any Federal thugs who came into his State and violated its laws, just as he would any other common criminals.

The Dept of Justice is trying to have as many Univ of Miss students as possible indicted and convicted of "rioting."

Before the County Grand Jury, to which Federal thugs are presenting "testimony," Judge Walter M. O'Barr gave instructions to ignore any "evidence or testimony" procured by Federal authorities in their illegal raids, without search warrants, on the bedrooms of students and co-eds in the Univ of Miss dormitories.

He declared that the Kennedy Administration is moving toward a totalitarian dictatorship, something that has been apparent to all real Americans for some months.

Judge O'Barr said the search of students' rooms at Ole Miss by soldiers and marshals was in violation of every constitutional provision known to man.

"Everyone shall be free from unlawful search and seizure," he told the grand jury, and added:

"I instruct you not to consider any evidence brought before you which may have been obtained by an unlawful search at the Univ of Miss, thru the 'excuse' of upholding and enforcing an unlawful order that had not become final."

He reminded the jurors that Federal or State govt employees were not immune from prosecution. He didn't spare those in high places in Washington, for he said:

"Any man who either pulls the trigger of a gun, or orders some other person to pull the trigger, or who is responsible for creating a situation the ultimate outcome of which is the killing of a human being in direct violation of the law, should be indicted and tried in a court of competent jurisdiction."

What followed is one of the classic rulings in American jurisprudence, and it is too much to hope for execution of the Judge's implied instructions. He said:

"This applies to John F. Kennedy, his little stupid brother Robert Kennedy, and Mr. McShane or any other human being."

(Editor's Note: JFK's little stupid brother is the Atty Genl of the United States who has been known to jump in swimming pools in full evening dress. McShane is the Chief US Marshal who triggered the riots, which resulted in two deaths, described by the good judge as "murders", by ordering his thugs to fire gas bombs at the students and into dormitory windows.)

The US Circuit Court of Appeals at New Orleans has declared the whole Constitution unconstitutional and ruled that the Executive Branch is a subordinate body to the judicial.

The Constitution says there are three co-ordinate branches for the purpose of "checks and balances." The Supreme Court sometime ago said that Congress is merely a branch, division or department of it.

So far they've gotten away with it because no Member has had the courage or legal honesty to impeach these usurpers.

It seems that the 9 judicial baboons on the US Court of Appeals have declared themselves equal to the Supreme Court and above the Executive, the Kennedys and the House of Rockefeller put together.

This "court" ordered the Dept of Justice to indict and convict the Governor of the once-sovereign state of Mississippi, and throw him in jail because he attempted to enforce the laws of Mississippi and the Constitution of the US.

Altho he was smarting under the publication of the remarks of a Mississippi judge that he ("JFK's little stupid brother," Atty Genl Robert Kennedy) seems in no hurry to carry out the orders of this "superior body" much as he would like to please the NAACP.

It looks like the idea was to get Castro to give back the Rockefeller sugar mills in return for a pledge from Rockefeller Center not to invade Cuba, or to give up our Naval Base at Guantanamo—or both.

This team consisted of John J. McCloy (head of their Chase Manhattan Bank), Adlai Stevenson (longtime member of their Council on Foreign Relations) and another CFR member who is so unimportant that we have already forgotten his name.

In the meantime, Khrushchev's head Assistant (Anastas Mikoyan) has been in Cuba, talking (or remonstrating) with Castro so long that he looks as tho he might have grown there.

The 3-man team apparently didn't get very far with the Mad dog of the Caribbean and he told them to scram.

Mikoyan seems to be made of different stuff for he hasn't scrambled, altho the general opinion is that he wants this bearded unwashed bum to co-operate with Khrushchev and wipe out all Russian installations on the Island of Cuba that are aimed at the heart of the United States.

He is throwing a monkey wrench into the Khrushchev Plan to mousetrap Kennedy as outlined in CN November 3d. The chances are that, while JFK and his Rockefeller Center bosses wiggle and wobble, Khrushchev will give Castro a deserved spanking, just ignore him and go ahead dismantling all Soviet installations on the Island.

The loud-mouthed Castro is yelling that we should abandon our Naval Base of over 60 years' standing, and give assurances that we won't let the Cuban patriots or anybody else oust him from the power and gravy train to which the House of Rockefeller elevated him three years ago.

He would have the protection of the House right now if he hadn't double crossed them by seizing their sugar mills in August 1960, after pledging himself not to do so at the time the House made their treasonous deal with him in August 1959.

Real Americans hope that, if Mikoyan leaves Cuba without establishing the Cold Peace, we should send our Marines out from Guantanamo, with all necessary air support, to mop up every installation that is a threat to innocent people anywhere in the US.

The Russkies are fed up with this maddog, and such a defensive act on our part would stir up only token protests from the Kremlin, if any.

We ought to take a regiment of Cuban patriots (underground-in-exile) into Cuba with the Guantanamo Marines and let them capture Castro.

They'd take care of him.

The Federal Trade Commission has cracked down on James M. Dudley of Jacksonville (Fla), who calls himself Fire-Pak Mfg Company.

The charge is that he misrepresented the safety, utility and effectiveness of his shaker type dry chemical fire extinguisher.

This charge amounts merely to false advertising, but judging from the specifications given by the FTC the overt act is a far more serious one.

It involves the safety from fiery deaths of users of the Dudley fire extinguisher.

The Commission charges that these statements in the company's advertising are false:

1. Excellent fire protection in automobiles, boats, buses, electrical equipment, farms, garages, homes, house trailers, industrial plants, institutions, service stations; also schools, trucks and tractors.
2. Safe and effective.
3. Approved extinguishing agent.
4. Unequaled in effectiveness.
5. Instantly puts out flaming grease, fuel oil, electrical or even a butane or propane fire.
6. More effective than extinguishers costing up to 6 times as much.
7. In use with the US Forest Service and Army Engineers.
8. Has more fire-killing power than 3 one-quart carbon tetrachloride extinguishers, or two 5-pound CO-2 extinguishers.

The FTC has given Mr. Dudley 30 days to file an answer. If the charges are correct this is a dangerous policy, because it gives 30 more days to burn some people up who thought they were safe when they bought and installed a Dudley Fire-Pak.

The Commission specifically and unqualifiedly says each of these claims are false.

KNOWN AS SODIUM FLUORIDE

Because a substance like sodium fluoride (which becomes part of the water when dumped in it) cannot be filtered out, Science has had a hard time with this problem. A leading Mid-west waterworks chemist discovered a chemical powder which fuses with the fluoride in water—and which itself cannot go thru the fine but porous Tripoli Rock of the Grummons Filter. We have certificates from four testing laboratories that fluoridated tap water, run thru the Grummons filter, is free of fluoride.

The Grummons Filter comes in five sizes. Prices are FOB Nappanee, Indiana. Filters will be shipped any way you elect, transportation charges collect—Express (quick), motor freight (not so quick), rail freight (slow). Deliveries to carrier within 48 hours of receipt of order.

THE MESS IN CUBA---It is not possible to tell what's going on in the Cuban Mess, except the situation is more than that. The Defense Department actually brags that the "news" it gives out is prevarications and made up out of the whole cloth. But it blandly says (and apparently thinks Americans are dumb enough to believe) that this mendacity is winning the cold war with Russia. This hypothesis or apothysis or hippopotamysis doesn't butter any parsnips as far as the reading public is concerned. As the poet says: "This government of ours isn't much but its the best we have; in fact the only thing we have."

President Kennedy, whose TV quotations (Oct 29th) from CAPSULE NEWS of January 13 last, which he said he had just heard about October 15th, brought him pats on the back from his own entourage. They said he was a brave man to say what he said. They said nothing about CAPSULE NEWS saying this for nine months before, and sending three copies of it to the White House on January 12th. Digging thru the mass and maze of misinformation, which the Press is furnished by the Pentagon, the only thing that is certain is that CAPSULE NEWS was 100% right on Jan 12. The Russians were building nuclear missile bases and military jet runways on the outskirts of Havana at that time. And, as the House Armed Forces Committee heard from a Pentagon lobbyist February 6th last, these missiles were being aimed at not only Washington and New York, but Miami, New Orleans, Atlanta and even Milledgeville (Ga), to quote from the Committee record.

Since his "brave speech" that was heard round the world was given to the nation under a ballyhoo advance build-up that smacked of California real estate operations, JFK has wiggled and wobbled. Apparently, his bosses in Rockefeller Center are awaiting the establishment of a new policy by the Rockefeller-Soviet Axis powers-that-be. For they sent a widely press-agented "3-man team" to Cuba to "negotiate" something or other that never was made clear.

THE MILK FARMERS---One of the many campaign promises that Candidate Kennedy made and President Kennedy repudiated was to rectify the bankruptcy of dairy farmers brought about by the Eisenhower-Benson farm policies which batted the price of milk down from $4.50 to $3.50 at the farms. Not content with this---which probably was the reason---the carbonated beverage companies began to systematically wreck the milk farmers by spreading the story that "milk deposits cholesterol in the arteries and causes heart failure." Duon Miller of Miami, one of the nation's leading blood chemists, knows more about milk deposits in the blood than all of the cola drink propagandists in the world.

He gives the lie direct to these racketeers and tells a few things about cola drinks himself, from first hand knowledge of them. He says these drinks (popularly known as Cokes) destroy the calcium in the body. The first thing loss of calcium does is to cause rotting teeth and brittle bones, for calcium is the principal ingredient of these structures. Mr. Miller reports that loss of the normal calcium level lowers the thinking power and the IQ of the individual. He says: "Show me the student that drinks a lot of cokes and I'll show you a poor report card. Take him off the cokes and watch his grades come up immediately." And: "I knew a man with a herd of dairy-cattle who had to keep 20 cats around the barn because rats were eating all the grain. On my advice he put several plates of Coca Cola in his barn. Within a week there wasn't a rat around the place."

WHY THE MOVIES ARE DEAD (Continued)---Our November 3 listing of the only motion pictures available in New York's famous, or notorious, Times Square Area evoked wide comment. Some morons told some readers that CN was "exaggerating." How you can exaggerate an accurate list was not explained. We now find that in the smaller, and more American, cities of our country that some rotten movie fare is offered those with time on their hands. And that the people of the small cities as well as the large ones are staying away from this one-time excellent entertainment in droves. Mrs. B. B. Munsey, a CN reader in Denton (Tex) lists the movies that were offered the people of Denton for the one week in which she made a record of the movies she stayed away from. And they were all that was to be seen in Denton:

Unashamed Women.....Captive Men.....Blind Fury.....Savage Love, Unrestrained By Manmade Laws.....They Wear No Clothes (Bold, startling, a cyclone of thrills).....Hot Rod Girl.....Youth On The Loose.....Girls In Prison (What Happens to Women Without Men).....Jungle Virgin (Pulsating Primitive Passion).....Vampires of the Night (Draining Life From Human Victims).....Three Violent People (Emotions as Violent as the Raw Red Southwest That Spawned Them).....

HOW SALK VACCINE CAUSES POLIO

In 1958 four state legislatures, well "oiled" with Drug Trust bribes and propaganda, made the inoculation of helpless children with Salk Vaccine compulsory. In 1958 CAPSULE NEWS made an on-the-spot survey of the result of this compulsory inoculation. Here is what we found--from records of the four state health departments involved:

In North Carolina, this compulsion quadrupled polio and made much business for medics, hospitals and the Drug Trust. In 1958 there were 74 cases of polio in the Tarheel State. In 1959, after a year of compulsory Salking, there were 313. In Tennessee, compulsory inoculation brought the ghastly toll up from 119 (1958) to 386 (1959). In Connecticut there were 45 cases in 1958, and 123 in 1959. In Ohio the increase was 4-1. And in all states the records showed that the incidence of paralysis among polio cases caused by Salk vaccine was twice as high as polio caused by injudicious eating and drinking (of soda pop).

This makes one wonder how Salk Vaccine can be so venal and deadly as to give the victims of inoculation with it polio. We have the benefit of the clinical records of Dr. Helen Sanders, a California naturopath who gets many polio cases after the medics finish puzzling their heads as to how a person "completely immunized" could get polio. Because of her penchant for telling the hard facts of life about such things, Dr. Sanders recently was framed up by the California Food & Drug hoodlums on suspicion of curing cancer. This made her Public Enemy No. 1 of the Drug Trust and American Medical Association in her locality.

Muscular contracture and distortion are the chief results of polio. Salk Vaccine creates a spasm of the spinal muscles, compressing the spine as a whole, pulling the head and pelvis closer together than they were before Salk Vaccine was given. This forces the lumbar and cervical vertebrae forward, and causes the front muscles of the body to spasm. Nearly every child who came to Dr. Sanders with polio developed such enlarged and inflamed tonsils that there was a tonsilectomy. The tension created in the thyroid area impaired circulation to the point where there was a tendency to develop hyper-thyroid-ism. (Continued Inside Col 3)

DEGAULLE MAKES SENSE---The Test Ban Treaty was signed by the foreign ministers of the United States, Great Britain and Russia Monday amid a great fanfare in the press, most of which (in this country, at least) was what our Washington poltroons call "Managed News." As previously explained here, this is merely a polite phrase meaning calculated lying. What JFK says, or what Dean Rusk says, or what Averell Harriman (Rockefeller agents all) says is about as reliable as the Biblical sayings of Ananias or the modern day hokum of Drew Pearson. Get it checked, double checked and triple checked before you making the mistake of believing it.

The best information we have been able to gather from the "information" coming out in the press, garbled in Washington and in newspaper offices, is that the three nations have agreed to ban nuclear testing in the air and in the water, but not underground. The reason is a good one. All of these tests release millions of particles of fallout which (if continued) will cause more ill health than all of the hypodermic injections by brainwashed allopaths and drugs foisted on a brainwashed public by the Rockefeller Drug Trust and the American Medical Association. This would certainly be a step in the right direction if there was any stability to it. There is no telling when Russia will violate her solemn treaty, openly or secretly.

A number of minor nations who don't count in the scheme of things are me-too-ing the proposal and hopping on the band wagon. As was expected Red China is sounding the Sour Note in a foghorn voice. They want Nuclear War. Period. (Continued Inside Column 2)

FOREIGN AFFAIRS

All the nations in the World have been invited to become signatories to this treaty. On the face of the information given out, it came as a surprise that France flatly refused. Senator Goldwater also expressed grave doubts as to the value of such a pact.

The reasons he gave were suppressed by our "news"-papers in order to help Nelson Rockefeller smear the GCP's rank-and-file choice for the Presidential nomination.

The papers did publish DeGaulle's reasons for refusing to sign the test-ban treaty, and they made plenty of sense:

"France will halt its own nuclear program only if the United States and Russia agree to destroy their own nuclear stockpiles. A disarmament conference should destroy not only stockpiles but the vehicles (missiles and rockets).

"The Moscow agreement might be considered a good thing as a starting point, but it still leaves the World in danger.

"It has not lifted the atomic menace which weighs on the World. None of the signers has renounced the use of atomic weapons---hence, the position of the World has not been changed in any way.

"France will propose methods for controlling cosmic, aerial and sea delivery systems involved in nuclear armament to the disarmament conference it intends to suggest."

Averell Harriman was appointed by the House of Rockefeller to "negotiate" a disarmament treaty.

Such a project was a job for a good man---not a weakling who has never earned a dime in his life nor distinguished himself in public service.

Harriman's chief claim to fame is that in 1945 he was appointed overseer of the plan to give away billions of tax dollars to foreign nations (and the House of Rockefeller industrial units). It was called the Marshall Plan.

His first act was to leave his post in Washington and go to Paris to see that Standard Oil was not interfered with when it stole the first $160,000,000 of Marshall Plan funds in a deal that still smells bad.

An eager beaver in the Dept of Justice uncovered it and filed a motion to recapture this $160,000,000, in NY Federal Court. The case is still in a court pigeon hole; the eager beaver was quickly separated from the Govt service.

Showing his total lack of grasp of the situation Mr. Harriman held a Press conference and gave out a statement from both sides of the street.

He first said that the basic objectives of the US and Russia are irreconcilable.

Then he said failure to ratify the "test ban" would be disastrous for the United States.

You figure that one. We can't.

All cases developed extreme anteriority in the position of the first lumbar; also marked diaphragmatic contracture.

Almost all presented congestion in the liver tissue, especially where the ligaments attached the liver to the diaphragm. This condition is also found in all cases of cancer.

Some of Dr. Sanders' cases came to her in terminal cancer stages--a year after they had been Salked. Their history had been no cancer symptoms until after the Salking.

(Editor's Note: This adds because two years ago a pair of Rockefeller Drug concerns were told by the Govt to halt the production of Salk Vaccine. Their product had given cancer to 109, of 154, white mice that had been innoculated with it.)

Contracture of the area of the first lumbar and the diaphragm is always present in Hodgkins Disease (tumor of the lymph glands). Many children develop this disease within a year after being Salked.

Predisposition to Hodgkins is shown in the body by a deep spinal anteriority in back of the spleen, and a flaring forward of the ribs over the spleen. This distortion can be noted in all persons at the time the condition is first found in the blood by laboratory tests.

The extreme contracture of the Psoas Major muscle (the one that flexes the spine and pelvis) in all cases given Salk resulted in impaired peristaltic action, and created appendicitis in many cases.

The most common conditions in children caused by Salk Vaccine were those of acute rheumatic fever and spinal meningitis.

Many times the symptoms and muscle contractures of both were present at the same time.

The Sabin Death Potion reacts differently. The first batch sent to Canada by a Rockefeller Drug Company (Merrell) killed 52 persons before the Canadian law caught up with it. It was quickly banned in the Dominion.

In Sabinizing, the heavy muscular spasms occur primarily in the diaphragm and the base of the skull. Compression of the chest is so marked that many develop pneumonia.

Briefly stated, Sabin creates a spinal tension something like spinal meningitis, while Salk creates distortion of the framework and muscles that are found in pure polio.

One of Dr. Sanders' 10-year old patients came to her 12 hours after being Sabinized and had already lost the use of her right leg and her last meal. The quack family doctor said there was nothing wrong with her.

Under Dr. Sanders she was partially recovered but walks with the typical right leg "dip" of a person who suffered from spinal meningitis. Both foot and leg are badly turned.

The record of polio "immunization" is plain for all to see, and is a ghastly one, even aside from the hundreds of little white coffins Salking created a sale for in its early days.

Dr. Ben Sandler, MD, a nutritionist at the US Veterans Hospital, Oteen, North Carolina, discovered the cause and prevention of polio in the summer of 1948. It was, as is the case of nearly all human ills, a matter of diet.

But a special summertime diet caused it in children—frozen sweets, soda pop instead of nourishing protein foods.

Before the Drug Trust censor could prevent, North Carolina newspapers carried the tidings all over the Tarheel State.

State Health Dept records show that, as a result of most people heeding this warning, polio fell off 90% in 1949.

In 1948, there were 2,498 cases in the State; in 1949 only 229. But---

The profits of the Rockefeller Milk Trust also fell off 90% in North Carolina.

So in 1950 the Kept Press was ordered to "correct" the matter. It did, by lying to its readers and making it look like the Sandler disclosures never happened.

Polio went back to "normal."

That the promotion of these Death Operations, with the active-co-operation and collaboration of the US Public Health Service and the American Medical Assn, is 100% a commercial racket is indicated by the figures given Moody's Manual of INDUSTRIALS by five Rockefeller Drug Companies engaged in this ghastly traffic.

In 1954 (the year before the Big Oax) Allied Laboratories made a net profit of $1,019,242. Three years later (after two years of dealing in the Salk brand of death) Allied's profits had zoomed to $3,612,593.

Eli Lilly's blood profits jumped from $11,342,662 to $32,296,593.

Nerck & Company enjoyed a financial boom from $12,614,086 to $23,---94,067.

Parke-Davis did likewise to the tune of from $10,493,502 to $27,929,---37.

American Home Products' net went from $16,211,391 to $38,617,510.

The National Park service had never heard of the project, so it had to be assumed that after all owners had been driven from their homesteads, 1313 would "change its mind" and sell the property to Standard Oil Company for the proverbial song.

The whole of Southern California is being exploited by the "Urban Renewal" racketeers.

Trouble is also rampant in Phoenix, Kalamazoo, Detroit, New York, Massachusetts and even in Hawaii, Puerto Rico and Alaska.

The Hog Combine in Chicago and Rockefeller Center (New York) will stop at nothing until all small property owners "in its path" have been wiped out.

Jo Hinman, in his excellent book "Terrible 1313 Revisited," points out that, with 8 exceptions, every State in the Union has been hoodwinked into passing "urban renewal" laws, all of them being vicious, but California being the most vicious of the lot.

Basically, the renewal of anything that is worn out is commendable, providing it is renewed in a sensible manner.

But, rebuilding any part of a city under subsidized (Rockefeller) urban renewal at taxpayer expense is not sensible.

Such action goes against the tried and true laws of economics and common sense.

Subsidized urban renewal defies the intent of laws that safeguard the right of a person to own property free from the fear of seizure.

The Rockefeller brand of "urban renewal" travels under the disguise of slum clearance which it is not, for this type of "urban renewal" is demolishing buildings and homes that are perfectly sound and in good shape.

Subsidized urban renewal, the type conceived and promoted by Rockefeller 1313, was put into effect in 1954 by an amendment to the Federal National Housing Act.

This was put over on Congress by high class liars on the payroll of 1313 who hoodwinked easily-hoodwinked members of Congress into passing it.

This law was so obviously socialistic that a hue and cry was raised against it—but too late.

It added a new twist to the original housing law, in the form of misleading terminology. These false words gave the impression that private enterprise would participate in urban renewal.

The only way "private enterprise" participated was for the Rockefeller group to procure these parcels of real estate at a small part of its value—the local taxpayers footing the bill to make these behemoths of finance richer still.

(Next Week: The amazing Rockefeller gimmick which they call "Group Dynamics" and "Social Engineering".)

Frenzied Finance

The FTC is uncovering a ring of American sharpshooters, trading with the enemy in a roundabout way.

Camera Specialty Company (Bronxville, NY) and Grayson-Robinson Inc Stores (NY City) have been caught selling Communist-made goods under the pretense that they were made in the USA.

The Commission issued an order enjoining the former (doing this extra-curricular business under the trade name of Exacta Camera Co.) from selling Soviet-made products without conspicuously and clearly disclosing their origin.

The company was further ordered to stop lying in its advertising by saying that all major hospitals use their cameras, and to stop misrepresenting the number or identity of users of its products.

According to the FTC, some of the concern's cameras are imported from Communist East Germany, but neither the cameras themselves nor their containers give any hint as to the country of origin.

A further allegation is that Exacta advertised in nationally circulated magazines that "Every major hospital in the United States uses the Exacta because of its performance and reliability."

The complaint against Grayson-Robinson (and its subsidiary, Peerless Camera Stores) charges them with both making deceptive pricing claims and failing to disclose that their product is made in Communist East Germany.

Grayson-Robinson's answer, which must be taken with a grain of salt or two, is that it was Exacta that did the dirty work not them.

It avers that it has no control over Peerless which, the FTC says, is wholly owned by the chief defendant.

It also claims that selling USSR-made cameras "is not commerce as defined by the Federal Trade Act."

FOOD & DRUG HOODLUMS--- US Food and Drug Administration has just approved for distribution a birth control pill called Enovid that it admits having found to produce cancer, liver malfunctions and pulmonary embolism. The latter is the fancy medical term for blood clots in the veins and lungs. It is manufactured by G. D. Searle & Company of Skokie, Ill. Moody's Manual of INDUSTRIALS doesn't show it to be a member of the Rockefeller Drug Trust but the only conclusion that one can draw from the criminal act of the F&D hoods is that the Rock Mob has acquired a substantial interest in it since Moody's went to press. Its last statement shows net earnings of nearly $7,000,000 and assets of $8½ million. That's the kind of profits the Rock Mob likes to make---82% on its investment.

After approving the use of this lethal drug (for cancer is lethal when treated by orthodox medical methods) the Hoods issued a warning which not one pregnant woman in 10,000 will ever see. The warning said its principal potential dangers were that it causes (1) Certain cancers, (2) Liver malfunctions or disease, (3) Patients with a history of thrombophlebitis or pulmonary embolism. The hoods recommend the use of these cancer producing pills only for "short term use." This they set at 2-4 years, which is plenty of time for cancer to kill and add $7,000 to the bank accounts of the medics, the surgeons, the hospitals, the drug trust, the undertakers and the cemeteries.

THE URBAN RENEWAL HOAX---The Urban Renewal Hoax, perpetrated by Congress and many state legislatures on small property owners is a creature of Rockefeller's 1313, or Metro Monster. The Kept Press carefully covers up the "power" behind these crimes, in which property is taken from home owners by condemnation proceedings, then turned over to Rockefeller units at a small part of its value with the taxpayers of that community footing the bill. In the Nation's Capital huge sections of Southwest Washington, not very far from the Capitol Building itself, have been forcibly taken away from their owners for nominal sums. Washington's centuryold fish wharf section, with its highly prized restaurants, was wiped out without recourse.

All businesses were forced to go elsewhere, even tho some of them couldn't exist except in that environment and location. The property was then "sold" to The Zeckendorff arm of the House of Rockefeller for what some real estate men considered a "nominal" sum. The Zecks are now putting up jerry-built apartments and other structures at huge profits to the House of Rock. New Orleans property holders are being hit hard by this racket, as are the people in hundreds of communities in the United States. One of the first projects announced, which hasn't yet been completed, was to sequester millions of acres (believed to have extensive oil deposits) in three South Florida counties for an alleged "Seminole National Park."

INCOME TAX EVASION---James M. Landis, one of the early "New" Dealers and until recently one of the 37 varieties of parlor pinks and backhouse reds surrounding JFK (exclusively told in CAPSULE NEWS), has been arrested for income tax evasion and has pleaded guilty. He expects the White House to protect him---as he expected all along, or he never would have evaded paying his levy for the five years from 1956 thru 1960. And the White House is trying to. The defendant's specious "plea" is that he was so busy doing "important work" in the White House that he just "forgot to file his returns."

Other have a different tale to tell about his White House "activities." The husband of his secretary charged under oath, in a divorce proceeding, that Landis was spending too much time in a White House bed with his (the secretary's husband's) wife. That, we are willing to believe, is more likely to make a man forgetful than attending to government business. Anyhow, some eager beaver in the Internal Revenue Service discovered that this $20,000-a-year government payroller owes the government some $310,000 which he didn't even report.

After Landis was caught he "put the money back". He then filed his returns and paid the tax. But the government prosecutor said this "did not meet Government standards of voluntary disclosure." The plan is for Bobby Kennedy to "put a bug in the judge's ear" when the former White House Don Juan comes up for sentencing. Since letting him go scott free would be too raw looking, the plan is to give him a nominal sentence and then suspend it. They wouldn't do that for you and us (editorial usage for "me").

NELSON ROCKEFELLER WILL BOLT the Republican Party, as predicted here last week, if the GOP's pupolar choice (Goldwater) is nominated by the 1964 delegates who want to capture the White House again. Nelson practically said so by brushing off a newsman who asked him the pertinent question---would be support the party nominee (as all good party men do) if it is Goldwater. Nelson took the political "5th amendment".

SYNOPSIS

This book is a collection of allegations against Drew Pearson made by the author and many other people for the purpose of degrading Pearson's ability as a writer and showing him as a coward, a character assassin, liar, cheat, blackmailer, thief, draft dodger, fraud and communist propagandist. He appears to be universally detested but feared because of his poison pen, his ability to lie, and tear down the character of some of our great Americans. Author Bealle is at a loss to understand why newspapers print the material Pearson writes. He feels this book is long overdue as Pearson has been slandering, libelling and assassinating the character of every person in public life whom he dislikes. Bufiles reflect cordial correspondence with Bealle since 1931. A separate and brief summary on Bealle is attached.

Drew Pearson was born Andrew Russell Pearson on 12-13-97, Evanston, Illinois. Little is known of his activities until "he ducked the draft in 1918" at the age of 21 by entering a Quaker College and joined a campus military drill team. His mother-in-law, Mrs. Eleanor Patterson, while editor of the Washington Times-Herald, said he joined the Quaker Church and "thee'd and thou'd his way out of military service." (Page 7) The author indicates the only good thing Pearson ever did was to collaborate with Robert S. Allen in writing "an excellent book titled 'Washington Merry-Go-Round.' The title got the book reams of publicity, and the astute Allen figured how to cash in on it." They sold it as a daily column to many newspapers. Pearson dodged the draft in 1918, Allen volunteered to serve in 1941 and did serve as a Major on General Patton's staff. He lost an arm in West Germany and returned home to find Pearson had stolen the Merry-Go-Round project by deleting Allen's name from the Trade Mark. When Allen threatened court action Pearson settled some cash on Allen. (Page 10)

Re: Review of Book
"All America Louse--A Candid Biography of Drew (Ananias) Pearson"

Mr. Hoover and the FBI are mentioned on Page 11. The author says Pearson's greatest service to Communism was a spy job for the Russian and Communist Chinese General Staffs in 1950, when he published secret data in his "smear column" on the distribution of MacArthur's troops in Korea, which resulted in "maybe 50,000 casualties of American boys in Korea." This top secret information was filched from the "files of the Defense Department and, of course, Pearson had to have the co-operation of someone or ones very high up. For that reason an investigation by the FBI, which doubtless found the 'leak,' was suppressed by J. Edgar Hoover's superiors in the Justice Department." (Page 11)

Author alleges Chief Justice Earl Warren, Drew Pearson and Mrs. Eugene Meyer visited Nikita Khrushchev at his villa on the Black Sea. Author says it was not a business or social call for Pearson, so it had to be in connection with his activities as Communist Russia's Number 1 Propagandist in the United States. (Page 11) Author takes quotes from a brochure prepared by Reverend Gerald L. K. Smith which alleges Pearson is a blackmailer and has controlled Justice Tom Clark like a puppet. (Page 17) A list of nine victims of evil attacks by Pearson on page 18 includes Generals MacArthur and Patton and Governor Dewey.

Author Bealle checked with Justice Department in 1963 to see if Pearson was registered as Foreign Agent. Reply was sent to him on 9-10-63 by J. Walter Yeagley that Pearson was not registered. (Pages 12, 13) Pearson dropped Andrew S. Older as a leg man when Older was named by a "female undercover agent for the FBI" as one who had infiltrated Communist cells. (Page 16) Pearson's attacks on Mr. Hoover in the early 1930's are set forth on page 55 of the book and pages 10 and 11 of the details of this review. This is where Pearson referred to the Director as "Super Dick J. Edgar." Pearson said FBI Agents, not Dillinger killed Carter Baum and other such lies and rubbish. FBI is mentioned on page 66 in connection with lawyer Charles P. Clark when he punched Pearson on the jaw. Clark was fined $25 and he sued Pearson for a million. Pearson bragged that he had caused the FBI to quiz both Clark and Congressman Keogh about a $4,500 payment he said Clark gave Keogh. Some of the more interesting highlights of the book are contained in the 17 pages of "DETAILS" attached.

DETAILS

PROLOGUE:

The author says this book is long overdue; for 30 years Drew Pearson has been slandering, libelling and assassinating the character of each and every person in public life to whom he happened to take a dislike. He says this book shows what a warped character Pearson is and he is at a loss to understand why newspapers print the material Pearson writes. It is also amazing to the author that only one person punched Pearson in the nose, and only one other gave him a good, public slapping around (Senator McCarthy). The author feels Pearson is "sick in the head." In speaking of himself, the author says he, Bealle, was born in New York City on 3-24-91 and was raised in Maryland and Washington, D. C. He studied shorthand and typewriting and started his newspaper career in 1916. He spent 14 months in the United States Army, then returned to his old job on the Washington Times. He bought a defunct monthly magazine called "Plain Talk" and wrote a book titled "The Drug Story" and could not get anyone to print it so he printed it himself and stated he has sold more than 100,000 copies by word-of-mouth advertising since that time. He names other publications he has written.

BUFILES:

A brief summary of the data contained in Bufiles on Bealle has been prepared and is attached. Bufiles reflect cordial correspondence with Bealle since 1931.

CHAPTER I "A PEDICLE IS BORN." The author starts off by quoting Representative Mott of Oregon as saying "Pearson is a journalistic polecat."

"Andrew Russell Pearson was born in Evanston, Illinois, on Friday, December 13, 1897, of otherwise respectable parents." Little is known of his activities until he "ducked the draft in 1918." His mother-in-law, Mrs. Eleanor Patterson, while editor of the "Washington Times-Herald" said Pearson joined the Quaker Church and "thee'd and thou'd his way out of military service." (Page 7)

Re: "All America Louse"

Bealle says that Pearson made the mistake of lying about Patrick Hurley, Hoover's Irish Secretary of War. Hurley sensed that Pearson was the one that did the lying so he threatened "to punch this journalistic quack in the nose. ... So, Pearson spread the story that he had been fired from the Baltimore Sun as a favor to Secretary Hurley." (Page 8)

Pearson and a more reputable and conscientious colleague from a large Eastern newspaper, Robert S. Allen, collaborated in writing an excellent book titled "Washington Merry-Go-Round." This book lampooned many prominent figures in Washington. ... The title of the book got it many reams of publicity and Allen figured how to cash in on it so he wrote over 1,000 daily newspapers offering to sell them a daily "Washington Merry-Go-Round" column. (Page 8)

"Pearson has been voted, in rump polls, as the most influential 'newspaperman' in the United States. To start with, self-respecting newsmen won't admit that he is one of them; and we are one of that group."

On Pages 8 and 9 the author tells about Pearson's attempt to embarrass Congressman Jones of Ohio, but his smear attempt blew up with a loud bang when Mr. Jones presented biographies of the three rascals whom Pearson quotes as authorities on Mr. Jones and they had jail and insane records. "Pearson's mind is so putrid that he publicly exulted when Congressman T. Ashton Thompson of Louisiana was killed in an unfortunate Fourth-of-July traffic accident." The author went on to say that Pearson's article stated Representative Thompson had many fine qualities; that in the opinion of the big chemical companies, one of his finest was his opposition to cleaning up water pollution. (Page 9) The author says Pearson was granted membership in the Congressional Press Gallery and to get it he pledged himself to take no jobs or assignments that affect advertising or legislation; that he violated this pledge by accepting money for advertising various things and was called before the grievance committee of the Standing Committee of Congressional Correspondents and found guilty as charged. "But, 3 members of the 5-man Committee had been doing the same thing themselves, and were easy prey to routine Pearson threats. They ignored the expulsion rule (3-2) and accepted Pearson's claim that he didn't know about the rule he had accepted and signed when admitted to the gallery." (Pages 9 and 10)

The author states that Robert S. Allen was the brains behind the activities that put Pearson in the position of affluence to which he rose, and although above draft age, Allen, in 1941, volunteered for service to the United States and was with Patton's tank outfit in Germany. He lost his arm in a German Hospital but when he returned to the United States in 1945, instead of Pearson greeting him with open arms, he found Pearson had double crossed him and had stolen Allen's half of the Washington Merry-Go-Round publication. This publication was netting Pearson over $50,000 a year at that time. Allen threatened to sue and Pearson paid him $50,000 to keep his mouth shut and just merely bank the $50,000, as Pearson knew he faced certain defeat and exposure if Allen sued him. (Page 10)

CHAPTER II "THE KREMLIN'S LITTLE HELPER." The author starts the chapter by a quotation from Mrs. Eleanor Patterson, Pearson's mother-in-law who is alleged to have said: "Pearson does his filthy work of plotting, planning, sneaking, lying, stealing and smearing in the hope of one day overthrowing our American form of government--for that's all it amounts to."

"In a book that made the best seller list (WASHINGTON CONFIDENTIAL) Jack Lait, a famous New York Columnist, told of pornographic parties in which State Department employees, and an occasional newspaperman, are 'hooked' by a hidden camera. They then are blackmailed the rest of their official lives to transmit such defense secrets as they can steal to agents for the Kremlin. One of the most notorious of these was Alger Hiss." In this book author Lait mentioned that "a feared columnist--certainly not Winchell" had been hooked. The author says as there were only two feared columnists, Winchell and Pearson and Winchell was not the victim, it must have been Pearson who has become the most effective and avid propagandist for Russia and the Communist Party in America. The author goes on to say that Pearson's greatest service to Communism was a spy job for the Russian and Communist Chinese General Staffs in 1950 when he published in his smear column the number and distribution of MacArthur's troops in Korea. This was top secret military information that the Russian General Staff would have given a billion dollars, and the lives of 1,000 spies, to obtain. And it resulted in maybe 50,000 casualties of American boys in Korea. (Page 11)

The author says as this information was stolen from Defense Department files the FBI investigated, but the FBI's findings were suppressed by J. Edgar Hoover's superiors in the Justice Department. (Page 11) The author says "A society item appeared in the press recently which read: 'Chief Justice Earl Warren, columnist Drew Pearson and Mrs. Eugene Meyer visited Nikita Khrushchev yesterday at his villa on the Black Sea.'" The author went on to say that Pearson obviously was not on a news collecting, tax deducting jaunt or he would have gone to the Kremlin. The author went on to say that it would hardly be a social call, so it had to be in connection "with Pearson's activities as Communist Russia's Number One Propagandist in the United States." ... "For Drew Ananias Pearson certainly is that." (Page 11)

M. A. Jones to Mr. Wick
Re: "All America Louse"

He next takes up the subject as to whether or not Pearson should be registered with the Department of Justice as a representative of a foreign government or suffer criminal prosecution. The author wrote the Department of Justice and received a letter from them saying "A check of our files indicates that there is no record of a registration for Mr. Pearson." This letter was signed by Nathan B. Lenvin, Chief of the Registration Section, who was signing for Assistant Attorney General J. Walter Yeagley, of the United States Department of Justice in a letter dated September 10, 1963. (Pages 12 and 13)

The rest of this chapter is devoted to showing that Pearson is a turncoat communist advocate who has defended Khrushchev and the Russians on a number of occasions. Pearson himself has been praised by the communist organ "The Daily Worker" for appearing as a character witness for 16 communist leaders of the Joint Anti Fascist Refugee Committee. (Page 15)

The author quotes from a brochure by Gerald L. K. Smith who states that the two leading Reds on Pearson's staff are David Katz (alias Karr) and his wife, both formerly associated with "The Daily Worker," Russia's official daily newspaper in the United States. (Page 17) Smith further states that Pearson is a blackmailer and a ruthless frame-up artist. One of those Smith says he controls like a puppet is Justice Clark of the Supreme Court. Smith says he can document this anytime he is requested to do so.

On Page 18 the author states: "Today, as it stands, the only thing that is keeping Pearson out of the penitentiary is the fact that he has blackmailed hundreds of prominent officials. His weapons include blackmail materials involving money matters, women and numerous other scandalous situations with which men of power can be intimidated. It is estimated that more than half of the members of Congress are afraid of Drew Pearson. And his long arm of blackmail tyranny now reaches into the Supreme Court of the U.S., and touches every phase of the administrative life of our government."

Re: "All America Louse"

On the last page of Chapter 2, page 18, the author lists nine of Pearson's outstanding "pusilannimous" attacks on good Americans and innocent victims of his evil mind.

1. His attempt to destroy General Patton before the invasion of France started.
2. His attempt to destroy General MacArthur, and have him removed from the Pacific command.
3. An attempt, by lies and insinuations to destroy the public's confidence in the Navy air arm.
4. Claim that the nurses and patients of Ward 32, Walter Reed Army Hospital, were engaged chiefly in carrying on drunken orgies.
5. A vicious canard four days before the 1944 election stating that Governor Dewey was a draft dodger.
6. A canard on the Republican candidate for Vice President, Governor Bricker, of Ohio, four days before the election, distorting the Governor's effort to get Army service as a chaplain.
7. A vicious diatribe against John Foster Dulles.
8. Going from the disgusting to the ridiculous, he took off on a seven-month-old Scottishpp visiting the White House.
9. An abortive but vicious attack on American troops in Japan and their illegitimate Japanese babies.

CHAPTER III "PUSILLANAMITY UNLIMITED." He starts this chapter off by quoting Senator Jenner of Indiana as saying, "Pearson is America's No. 1 keyhole peeper, muckraker, character assassinator, propaganda peddling prostitute of the nation's press and radio."

In this chapter the author discusses a phony law suit filed by Drew Pearson in 1951 against nine defendants and other persons unknown. The defendants were Senator McCarthy; Fulton Lewis, Jr.; Edward K. Nellor; George Waters; Donald Surine; Morris A. Bealle; Westbrook Pegler; Joseph B. Matthews and the "Washington Times-Herald." He claimed that these nine named with others unnamed, had conspired with each other to defame his "good name." The only clear-cut allegation he made was that Senator McCarthy had beaten the hell out of him in Washington's swank glorified saloon, the Sulgrave Club. For this physical beating Pearson wanted $250,000. The author of this book said he went down to North Carolina to investigate the incident of Pearson's arrest and found he had been arrested in the Southern Railway Yards at three o'clock in the morning with a colored boy and when he returned to Washington and told the Senator about it and the Senator reported to Pearson, he dropped all of his smears and began to dismiss the various suits.

M.A: Jones to Mr. Wick

CHAPTER IV "SPONGE BATH ALIBI." "Pearson is a ruthless, double-barrelled, diabolical, puerile liar." Representative Wilson of Indiana. This chapter deals with the Reidsville incident which occurred on July 7, 1914, at a time when Pearson was spending the summer driving stakes with his father's tent crew in a chautauqua which made one week stands through the Bible Belt. The author says Reidsville is a nine o'clock town and he asks the question "What then, was Andrew Russell Pearson doing from 10 pm to 3 am the next morning in the company of a little colored boy?" The author goes on to give the details of how Pearson made many types of allegations to deny there was anything wrong with this conduct and on top of that the courthouse with the records of his arrest had burned and to top that off he had his men remove the newspapers carrying the story from the newspaper morgue and the "big shots" of the town who financed and sponsored Dr. Pearson's show did everything they could to save their own reputations by covering up the fact that the son of a man they had sponsored was caught in such an embarrassing situation with "an Ethiopian."

CHAPTER V "THE GUN TOTER." "Pearson is a filthy and cowardly villain, a venomous slanderer, an insinuating rogue--who makes his living blackening other men's reputations." Representative Cox of Georgia.

The author opens this chapter by saying Pearson is a physical and moral coward, as well as a journalistic degenerate and at one time in his life he feared to go out in the street even armed with an .38 revolver so he hired a body guard. This was occasioned by Pearson stealing the wife of George Abell, another newspaperman whose main weakness was drinking. Pearson's first wife divorced him on August 6, 1928. She was the daughter of Mrs. Eleanor Patterson who edited the "Washington Times-Herald." Pearson invited the Abell family into his Georgetown home after which a romance developed between Pearson and Mrs. Abell who went to Reno and obtained a six weeks divorce, then married Pearson.

M. A. Jones to Mr. Wick
Re: "All America Louse"

During this time the story gives the impression Abell was drinking so heavily that he did not realize what was going on but when he found out about it he threatened to kill Pearson so the "lily-livered Pearson took no chances." Pearson set up a brick wall in his back yard and practiced target shooting day after day, he was that scared.

CHAPTER VI "AGRARIAN REFORMER." "Pearson is a liar and a disgrace to the newspaper profession." Senator Cain of Washington.

Bealle starts this chapter by saying: "Next to Khrushchev, the Chinese War Lord Mao Tse-tung is Pearson's favorite ideologist. Mousie Dung (as his name is pronounced) coined the word 'agrarian reformer' for himself. This was his excuse for stealing every farm in China by force of arms, or threat thereof." "Pearson has his own particular kind of agrarian reform. This is based on stealing only one farm and is thus a much smaller operation than that of Mousie Dung. The farm was cribbed from his own daughter." The chapter is taken up showing how Pearson managed to take a 200 acre farm away from his daughter after he had been named trustee and he still has that farm in Maryland.

CHAPTER VII "CISSY GO BRAGH." "Pearson is an infamous liar, a lying ass, a natural born liar, a liar by profession, a liar for a living, a liar in the daytime, a liar in the nighttime, a dishonest, ignorant, corrupt and groveling crook and skunk." Senator McKellar of Tennessee. This chapter deals with the background of the late Mrs. Eleanor Patterson who was known to her intimates as "Cissy" and shows how she eventually became the editor of and publisher of the "Times-Herald" newspaper in Washington, D. C. One of the first things she did was to throw her son-in-law's "garbage" out of the "Times-Herald." She announced that self-respect did not let her carry the Pearson offal any longer and stated that when a cockroach gets into your house the best way to remedy the situation is to step on it. "I have stepped on a cockroach and TIMES-HERALD readers won't be offended with his outpourings any more." Her opinion of Pearson as expressed in this chapter is certainly degrading to him. On Page 34 of this chapter it is said that Senator Tydings has full cause for conniptions everytime he hears the name of Pearson. The author's prize specimen for this reasoning was the fact that Pearson whispered to Senator Tydings on one occasion that he could write some mean things in his daily column if Senator Tydings did not support the reappointment of his father Paul M. Pearson, as governor of the Virgin Islands.

M.A. Jones to Mr. Wick
Re: "All America Louse"

Pearson's attacks upon General MacArthur are mentioned again in this chapter and he says Pearson is only a political columnist and radio commentator, but you don't have to go very far, or talk to many people, in this strange town without realizing that he is something more sinister. He says that Pearson literally frightens some highly placed men and women out of their wits because of their fear of what he might write about them in his column.

On Page 37 of this chapter the author states the "Baltimore Sun" got rid of Pearson; he found himself about as welcome as a leper in a diet kitchen. "Probably no man in Washington has ever had so many doors slammed in his face. Hate began to corrode him. Former friends relate that, green around the gills, he used to roll on the floor in hysterical rages."

The author said that finally MacArthur became tired of the ribbing given him by Pearson so he sued Pearson and the matter was settled out of court in a manner that reflects no credit to Pearson. On Page 37 he names other individuals such as Representative Martin J. Sweeney of Ohio who sued Pearson for libel, Secretary of Commerce Jessie Jones who referred to Pearson and others as "liars" and mentioned the fact that Sumner Welles told Pearson five days before Pearl Harbor that war with Japan was inevitable. From statements like this and others made in the book, it is obvious that the articles contained in this book are a collection of articles written by the author over a long period of years.

CHAPTER VIII "CROW EATER." "I am hereby joining two Presidents, 27 Senators and 83 Congressmen in describing Pearson as an unmitigated liar." Senator Smathers of Florida. The author states that when "Lyndon Johnson was unexpectedly catapulted into the White House on November 22, 1963, Drew Ananias Pearson was faced with the biggest and bitterest crow eating job that any pusillanimous scandal monger ever faced." "He had insinuated and innuendoed about every nasty and dirty and false insinuation and innuendo about the Vice President that his venal mind could think up. Pearson was over a barrel of large proportions---and he knew it."

The author went on to state he knew the President could turn the full forces of the Internal Revenue Bureau and the Department of Justice against him and Johnson was known to be rough on rats enough to lower the boom on this fantastic peddler of journalistic sewage, but through persons in the Democratic Party who feared Pearson's lying "pen," a truce was declared between Pearson and the White House. Bealle says what bugged the President the most was that Pearson had provided the biggest ammunition dump for Evetts Haley, when he wrote the devastating campaign document, "A Texan Looks At Lyndon." The author feels that if it had not been for the crooked Rockefeller-made-and-Rockefeller-serviced voting machines, which stole many millions of votes from Goldwater, this book might just as well been the big bomb that would have knocked "LBJ" out of politics. He goes on from there to relate some of Haley's political assault on "LBJ."

CHAPTER IX "PEGLER POINTERS." "Pearson is the biggest liar since Ananias, and when bigger lies are told Pearson will tell them." Morris A. Bealle. In this chapter is related an offense Pearson charged against Charles E. Wilson, the President of General Electric Company. He charged that Wilson had placed an instrument in Forrestal's home where a council of war was being held and recorded through this instrument the voices of the men in this council, presented them to the President of the United States to show how they criticized the President who seemed to enjoy the story and told them to lock up the transcript. Wilson denied the story and immediately demanded a retraction and stated that General Electric had developed no such listening device and the story was a complete fabrication. "Under the compulsion of a threat by Wilson to take 'action,' Pearson, on May 27, 1944, signed a memorandum, admitting that Wilson did not use any device to listen in on the conversation." This retraction was published on May 30th. The author then goes into the suicide of James V. Forrestal.

CHAPTER X "THE GARBAGE MAN." "Pearson is a wicked, malicious, gratuitous liar." Representative Wood of Georgia. On Page 48 of this chapter the author states: "How many garbage pails must a person empty to be called a garbage man?"

Senator Tydings stood on the floor of the Senate once and, in addition to calling Pearson a scoundrel, a slacker and a blackmailer said "Pearson has been guilty of trying to buy public influence, has been affiliated with the great gambling rackets of America and kept a deposit box containing thousands of dollars until the recent Treasury drive against income tax evaders."

The author then states that Pearson's secretary kept two sets of books, one for the inspection of the Internal Revenue and the other is a time accounting of Pearson's receipts and disbursements. On Page 52 the author states that Pearson maintains no modern downtown office as do all other big-time newspapermen. He utilizes a wing of his residence in order to claim a substantial tax reduction.

M. A. Jones to Mr. Wick
Re: "All America Louse"

Pearson frequently refers to anyone he hates as "anti-semitic." But, according to some of his ex-employees, Pearson himself is as anti-semitic as they come in his private conversations. Not to speak of anti-Catholic and anti-Negro. He is referred to as a penny pincher. On Page 53 it is stated that Pearson lied about Norman Littell, a former Assistant Attorney General and it cost him $40,000. Littell got a verdict of $50,000 but rather than wait for his money or go through the motions of the appeal which Pearson threatened, Littell accepted a $40,000 cash payment. A peculiar feature, at the time, of this suit was that Pearson paid one William Pierce Rogers $10,000 for alleged services as associate counsel. Rogers had never tried a libel case in his life; took no part in the defense. He had practiced mostly corporation law. This was settled on January 6, 1953, and two weeks later William Pierce Rogers was appointed Deputy Attorney General in the Criminal Prosecution Division of the Department of Justice and four years later he was appointed Attorney General of the United States. "Figure this one out for yourself " says the author.

Page 55. "During the latter part of Hoover's Administration, the FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover started an intensive nationwide probe of Communist activities in the USA."

"When Pearson and Allen started their newspaper column (summer of 1932) Drew picked out J. Edgar Hoover as a special target. Apparently, Pearson had even then effected a rapport with Russia which wasn't then as obvious as it is today. Pearson never let a week go by without taking a pot shot or more at J. Edgar. He would belittle him with such falsehoods and garbled statements as: "

"Super dick J. Edgar never worked a day in his life as an investigator."
"His public image as a great investigator was created by phoney publicity."

The author stated that Pearson seldom mentioned the Director without the prefix of "Super Dick" which Pearson thought was clever because he claimed he coined it. He bitterly criticized the FBI's handling of the Lindbergh kidnaping. He claimed "FBI agents and not Dillinger killed Carter Baum, who attempted to capture Dillinger at a roadhouse in Wisconsin." "At a time when the FBI was rounding up the Frank Nash (mail robber) Gang, Pearson claimed that a member used to sit in LaFayette Square, just outside FBI headquarters, and that JEH didn't have sense enough to look out of his office window and see him."

M.A. Jones to Mr. Wick
Re: "All America Louse"

"Despite Hoover's resentment of Pearson's sniping and lying, he made his peace with this calumniator at the time he was assigned to round up all pro-Nazis. He slipped Pearson many hot tips for his radio broadcasts. Pearson began to praise Hoover for the FBI's part in the frame-up of 30 luckless citizens who were persecuted for years for anti-Semitic activities; then turned loose years later when it was found the charges against them were false, and the government had no case."

The author spends several paragraphs describing Sumner Welles, an assistant Secretary of State. He said Welles was a well-known homosexual, and that eventually Welles became Undersecretary of State early in the "FDR reign"; and knocked Jefferson Caffrey out of the job so Pearson and Caffrey decided to gang up on Welles.

They hired a detective agency that specialized in wire tapping equipment and divorce cases. They bribed a Negro porter to appear in Welles' hotel room, then they took both pictures and wire recordings of what happened. When the evidence was turned over to FDR they thought he would supplant Welles with Caffrey as Undersecretary, but he refused. He promised to ease Welles out of his job but never did so. Welles was finally gotten rid of on the Bankhead funeral train when it was learned that on this solemn journey to Alabama Welles propositioned a Negro porter and was thrown off the train. Pearson held this over Welles' head for years and made him reveal top secrets of the State Department to him. This work later was taken over by Alger Hiss, Russian super spy who served a term for perjury in connection with his espionage activities.

On Page 56 it is stated that Secretary of State Cordell Hull learned of Welles leaking dangerous secrets to Pearson. He had his security and investigative staffs tap telephones and trail Welles to secret meetings with Pearson. Hull took this evidence to Roosevelt who promised to "take action at the right time---but never did," although he had an abiding contempt for Pearson personally. "Old Hull thought he had me nailed good," Pearson bragged. "But I knew FDR would do nothing because I got too much on his crooked brats Elliott and Jimmy."

On Page 56 the author tells of a partnership formed by Jimmy Roosevelt and Joseph P. Kennedy for the importation of liquors, "with all Federal officers ordered to look the other way when the Kennedy-Roosevelt ships ignored customs and any other laws." He says later that after President Roosevelt died Jimmy Roosevelt was frozen out by Joseph Kennedy with a $50,000 payment and as a result Eleanor Roosevelt never forgave the whole Kennedy Family and refused to endorse "JFK" for the nomination and election to the Presidency.

M.A. Jones to Mr. Wick
Re: "All America Louse"

The author cannot figure how Pearson figured in this double cross between the Kennedy Family and the Roosevelt Family but says he must have been in it somewhere as Jimmy Roosevelt never forgave Drew Pearson for whatever it was he did. Soon Jimmy Roosevelt set up his own undercover and underground organization in the government and went after Pearson. He gives the inside story of how the undercover organization of Jimmy Roosevelt worked and the payoffs offered by Jimmy Roosevelt in the way of fine government jobs given to people for information supplied. When Pearson learned that the "Crown Prince" (Jimmy Roosevelt) was investigating him he was panic stricken. "He decided that, since JR was fighting the Devil with fire, he (Pearson) had better fight his own newly acquired Devil with the same kind of fire." He dug back in his files and produced the name of a man whom he immediately lavishly entertained at the Mayflower Hotel and learned from him that Jimmy Roosevelt had used blackmailing methods in selling big insurance policies to wealthy businessmen who had cheated on their income taxes. Jimmy Roosevelt knew because his undercover staff had pulled these tax returns and conducted private investigations. Pearson's informant not named. (P. 57)

He told Pearson that John Hartford, President of the A & P grocery chain, was one of Jimmy's victims. He was taken for a $5 million insurance policy, just about the largest one in existence at that time. Hartford was also taken for a $400,000 loan by FDR and his son Elliott and got only two per cent of it and that was through Jesse Jones, whom the Roosevelt's never reimbursed. Pearson leaked word to Jimmy that he was about to lower the boom on him and Jimmy got the message fast. Go-betweens for both Pearson and Roosevelt held a series of conferences in the Willard Hotel and the poker game (for that is what it resembled) ended in an armed truce for each had his gun leveled at the other. (Page 58)

Pearson made a deal with the Anti Defamation League to hire David Katz and Andy Older, both card carrying communists who had been doing undercover work for ADL, provided ADL would share with him the cost of their salary and expense accounts. Pearson nicked ADL for expense money every chance he got, explaining "Jews contribute millions of dollars a year to that outfit; they've got more money than I have." As a result of this, the ADL allowed Pearson free access to their highly thousands of confidential files on many people and things.

Pearson's one-time partner, Robert Allen, was told that ADL was about to break with Pearson and Allen explained, "That will be the day." "They made him, and they can break him. I know, I was there. Period."

Re: "All America Louse"

CHAPTER XI "PUNCH IN THE NOSE." "Pearson is a scoundrel. In World War I the only powder he ever smelled was in the presence of ladies on the windward side of the parade ground." Senator Millard Tydings of Maryland.

The author states that through the use of body guards and infrequent trips away from the protecting walls of his Georgetown home, Pearson has managed to avoid being punched in the nose more than twice.

Pearson was luckier when he tangled with Senator McCarthy than he was when he tangled with Charles Patrick Clark, Washington lawyer and high priced lobbyist for Franco Spain a year and a half later. Clark didn't stop to see if Pearson would fight back. He uncorked a potential haymaker at the Pearson nose, missed the proboscis and landed on the Pearson jaw.

The day after McCarthy slapped Pearson's face at the Sulgrave Club, McCarthy, on the floor of the Senate, flattered Pearson by saying: "Drew Pearson is a diabolically clever voice of international Communism." The author says actually Pearson is so crude that everybody can see it except the Department of Justice. (Page 61)

The author says after this McCarthy briefly described the "All America Pedicle" as:

1. "An unprincipled liar;"
2. "A fake;"
3. "The owner of a twisted, perverted mentality;"
4. "Fiendishly clever;"
5. "A prostitute of journalism;"
6. "A sugar coated voice of Russian Communism;"
7. "A Moscow-directed character assassin."

"A Pearson associate is David Karr. Congressman Martin Dies, when chairman of the House Committee on un-American Activities, said Karr, employed by the Office of War Information had previously been on the staff of the Communist DAILY WORKER."

The author goes on to relate McCarthy's villification of Pearson on the Senate floor. McCarthy indicated that Pearson might never had signed up as a card-carrying member of the Communist Party, and never paid dues, but that had not affected his value to the Communist Party.

M. A. Jones to Mr. Wick
Re: "All America Louse"

McCarthy said he had been told by a number of ex-communists that Pearson's biggest job under the direction of David Karr, was to lead the character assassins of any man who was a threat to international communism.

Pearson had been lying so consistently about Charles Patrick Clark that when Clark met him in the lobby of the Mayflower Hotel, he hit him twice and a house detective pulled him about, away from Pearson and saved Pearson from a well-deserved beating. Pearson was so scared he rushed right to the District Attorney's office and got an "assistant DA to issue a warrant against Clark charging assault and battery." In Municipal Court Clark pleaded "not guilty" to the charge that he had punched Pearson in the jaw. Clark's lawyer, George McNeil, asked for a continuance of the case for two weeks. Pearson did not show up for the hearing. His lawyer said Pearson was visiting a doctor about a "red-dish area" on one side of his jaw. When Pearson did testify he stated it looked like Clark had been hiding, lying in wait for him. Pearson said Clark was reeling and saying: "Take that for Brewster and Keogh." Clark denied this with these words: "Not so," said Clark. "I hit him in the eye with my left, missed. and yelled at him. this is for Forrestal and Brewster and Vaughan and Keogh and myself, you son of a bitch." Clark was found guilty and when he was arraigned in court for sentencing, the judge fined him $25. Within one week Mr. Clark had received checks in the mail totaling $400 all with accompanying notes saying: "Hit him again for me." The $400 was given to religious charities, evenly divided between Catholic, Protestant and Jewish.

The author says Pearson continued his tormenting in Washington of the lawyer and so far overstepped the bounds of decency and truth that in March, 1962, Clark filed a suit for $1,000,000 against him. "Whereas Clark formerly busted Pearson on the jaw, this time he busted him in the pocket-book. Pearson has been strangely silent about Clark ever since."

"In his sewerage stint, Pearson bragged that he had tried to get the Justice Department to have Clark indicted for 'giving Keogh $4,500.' This actually was Keogh's part of a fee for a tax case in which he was associated with Clark, but Pearson didn't say it. Instead he smugly bragged that he had caused the FBI 'to quiz both Clark and Keogh.'"

CHAPTER XII "THE BRIGHTER SIDE OF PEARSON." "Pearson is a pathological liar, and the truth is not in him." Cordell Hull, when he was Secretary of State.

Mr. A. Jones to Mr. Wick
Re: "All America Louse"

The author leads off this chapter by stating that people say there is some good in everybody, but "we haven't found anyone but Drew Pearson to say anything nice about Drew Pearson, and he says plenty." "His own mother-in-law, and many ex-employees and newspaper associates say things about him that would curl the hair of, and sear the hirsute adornment off, an aluminum monkey." The gist of this chapter is that the only thing nice he ever did was when he formed a partnership with Allen and wrote two books titled "Washington Merry-Go-Round" and "More Merry-Go-Round." Unfortunately the success of these two tomes started Pearson on his venal career of character assassination and journalistic polecatry. (Page 67)

The author states that 90 per cent of the ideas set forth in these books was the work of Robert S. Allen who was a good writer and an honest reporter and that actually only 10 per cent would be the part Pearson contributed to the success of the books. The entire chapter is devoted to the various characters attacked in the "Washington Merry-Go-Round" and "More Merry-Go-Round." This includes attacks on former President Herbert Hoover; Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon; Henry Stimson; Vice President Charles Dawes; Senator George Norris of Nebraska; Senator William E. Borah; Senator Burton K. Wheeler; and others of that era. In summing up their data on Herbert Hoover, the author says: "Lastly, and perhaps the most important answer to Herbert Hoover's failure, is the fact that deeply ingrained in his makeup are two unfortunate characteristics---fear and vacillation. These coupled with a petty personal temper, sorely try even his most loyal friends." "There is not a really significant Republic leader in Congress or the country at large who trusts or respects Mr. Hoover." "Had Herbert Hoover never gained the Presidency, he might well have remained a shimmering hero. The illusion that he so skillfully wove would never have been shattered." (Page 69)

On Page 73 Bealle stated that when Pearson lied about and vilified Senator Norris, the Nebraskan pinned an epithet on him that still sticks to this day. "He characterized Pearson as the sewage system of American journalism. Anyone who has ever been in the buildings, or on the grounds, of a municipal sewage pumping station or disposal plant can understand what this means." On Page 74 Bealle states that Pearson's falsehoods against Norris "were so vicious and bitter and pusilanimous" that Norris tagged him with a label so true that it will follow him to his grave. He was referring to the tag on Pearson as the sewage system of American journalism.

CHAPTER 12 1/2 "OLD MEN IN HIS LIFE." "Pearson abuses the freedom of the press. He has long ago wrested away the laurels of Ananias, and placed them proudly on his own brow." Senator Russell of Georgia.

This chapter is devoted to a book titled "Nine Old Men" written by Pearson and Robert S. Allen in 1932. The author refers to it as an attack on elderly citizens who were members of the Supreme Court in 1932. There is nothing of particular consequence in this chapter of interest to this review.

CHAPTER XIV "IT'S TRUE WHAT THEY SAY ABOUT PEARSON." "Pearson is a blackguard who, by insinuations and outright lies tried to destroy public confidence in the Navy's air arm." Admiral William F. Halsey. (Page 83)

This chapter is devoted to unkind things said about Pearson by various men over the years and much of the contents of this chapter is nothing more than a repetition of what has already been said in the book. The author states that the most colorful of all verbal characterizations of Pearson and his poisoned tongue, was delivered on the Senate floor by Senator Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee. This happened after the Pearson column had carried a particularly vicious and mendacious attack on the tempestuous Tennessean who said: "Pearson is an infamous liar, a revolving liar, a pusilannimous liar, a lying ass, a natural born liar, a liar by profession, a liar for a living, a liar in the daytime, a liar in the nighttime; a dishonest, ignorant, corrupt and groveling crook and skunk."

The last page in the book is titled "EPILOGUE." The author states: "No self-respecting newspaper owner or publisher can ever print another Pearson Column after reading this book. His slanderous character and modus operandi, his total disregard for the truth are only minor items compared with his service to Soviet Russia and Domestic Communism."

"We have documented many of his Communist propaganda stints, taken right from his own writings. We have documented other people's 'stints' which give an insight as to why this man is selling his own country down the Volga River when he isn't actually a devotee of the Communist ideology. We have quoted his one-time mother-in-law (in public-prints) that he is trying to destroy our country."

Re: "All America Louse"

"Newspaper publishers who print his garbage are accessories after the fact to Pearson's treason---but only Pearson gets paid for it---not they."

"If this book is the medium thru which Pearson's journalistic offal is stopped from offending newspaper readers, and from injuring innocent people in and out of public life, we will be glad. And, if it delouses our newspaper profession, we will feel (as the poet says) that we haven't lived in vain."

BEALLE MORRIS MORRIS A. BEALLE

Our files, however, reveal one Morris Allison Bealle, Sr., husband of one Peggy Walton Bealle, spoke about a book he had written to some 14 people attending a November 1, 1965, meeting of The White Party of America (WPA) at Alexandria, Virginia. The WPA, launched in 1964 to oppose civil rights legislation and demonstrations, claimed it would uphold the U.S. Constitution and serve as a "home for people who want to preserve the white race" and cannot associate with other major political parties. A former newspaperman of 30 years, Bealle was self-employed under the trade name of Columbia Publishing Company, Washington, D.C. He had been the subject of a fraud investigation during July, 1945, in Washington, D.C., involving allegations that excessive paper quotas were obtained for various publications from the War Productions Board through influence. The 1945 investigation was closed without prosecutive action. It was not determined that Bealle was a member of the WPA.

b7c There was recently delivered to the War Frauds Section the attached photostatic copy of a letter addressed to a certain [redacted] and written by one Morris A. Bealle, 423 Washington Building, Washington, D. C.

The document was made available to the Department by [redacted] War Production Board, [redacted] Room 157, House Office Building, who informed that the [redacted] addressed in the letter is [redacted] to the President of the [redacted] Publishing Company, 295 Madison Avenue, New York City, and that the President of the said Company is a Mr. Joseph Cotten.

Exclusive of the letterhead the document in question reads as follows:

"I sent you a copy of WASHINGTON SQUIRREL CAGE with my compliments. This is the Bible of the American Democratic National Committee, for whom I am publicity and promotion manager as well as intermittent organizer.

"I know a man here who makes a specialty of practicing before the NPH and has gotten several increases in paper allotment.

While the letter, in itself, is not conclusive evidence of illegal conduct, the form and nature of the proposal contained therein evokes a suspicion that the writer, in league with another or others, may be engaged in activities which would constitute a fraud upon the War Production Board in connection with the paper conservation program.

In order that the purpose and activities of the subject Bealle may be more accurately interpreted, it is desired that [redacted] be interviewed to determine:

- (a) The identity of the person furnishing the letter to [redacted]

SYNOPSIS OF FACTS

On October 27, 1944, MORRIS A. BEALL, American Democratic National Committee, directed a letter to [REDACTED] of the Ideal Publishing Company, New York City, and in this letter BEALL alleged to know a man who made a specialty of practicing before the War Production Board and had obtained several increases in paper allotments. In this letter, BEALL inquired, "What would it be worth to you per ton to secure a large additional quarterly paper quota?" BEALL claimed to be publicity and promotion manager, as well as intermittent organizer of the American Democratic National Committee; is reportedly the author and publisher of the "Washington Squirrel Cage" and the "Plain Talk" Magazine. BEALL's letter was turned over to JULIUS GOLDSCHMIDT, New York Attorney who has represented the Ideal Publishing Company before the War Production Board Appeals Board. GOLDSCHMIDT then gave the letter to Congressman JOHN W. MCCORMACK of New York, who in turn submitted the letter to [REDACTED] War Production Board Liaison Officer. On September 13, 1944, the Ideal Publishing Company made an appeal to the War Production Board Appeals Board with reference to the amount of paper used in establishing a base period for future paper quotas. On November 21, 1944, the War Production Board Appeal Board set up the base period on the basis requested by the company. Judge J. R. DETAILS:

AT WASHINGTON, D. C.

This investigation is predicated on the referenced Bureau letter which transmitted copies of a self explanatory Departmental Memorandum dated January 4, 1945. The Departmental Memorandum stated that there had been recently delivered to the War Frauds Section of the Department, a photostatic copy of a letter addressed to a certain [redacted] and written by one MORRIS A. ZALLIE, 425 Washington Building, Washington, D. C. The letter had been made available to the War Frauds Section by [redacted] War Production Board [redacted]

b7c

According to [redacted] to whom the letter is addressed, [redacted] is [redacted] to the President of the Ideal Publishing Company, 295 Madison Avenue, New York. The President of this company is [redacted]. The letter, a photostat of which was enclosed with the Departmental Memorandum, was written on the letterhead of the American Democratic National Committee, which according to the letterhead, is composed of "real Democrats pledged to save their country and their Party from a fourth term and from the New Dealers". The letter reads as follows:

b7c

"Oct. 27, 1944.:

b7c

"I sent you a copy of WASHINGTON SQUIRREL CAGE with my compliments. This is the Bible of the American Democratic National Committee, for whom I am publicity and promotion manager as well as intermittent organizer.

"I know a man here who makes a specialty of practicing before the WPB and has gotten several increases in paper allotment.

"What would it be worth to you per ton to acquire a large additional quantity of paper?"

Signed: MORRIS A. DEALLE

The Departmental Memorandum requested that [REDACTED] be interviewed to determine:

- b7c
- (1) The identity of the person furnishing the letter to [REDACTED]
 - (2) Whether or not, since October 27, 1946, the Ideal Publishing Company had made application to the War Production Board for increased paper allotment, and if so what person, or persons, presented the application on the company's behalf.
 - (3) Whether or not any individuals have been especially active in appearing before the War Production Board for the purpose of soliciting increased paper allotments on behalf of publishing concerns or other large paper consumers.
 - (4) Any other information which would shed light on the background and activities of any of the subjects named.

The memorandum further requested that the person who had furnished the subject letter to [REDACTED] be interviewed fully concerning his knowledge and information in the matter. Other investigation requested by the Department called for a discreet inquiry being made concerning the background activities and close business associations of MORRIS A. DEALLE. The Department specified that it was considered inadvisable that Messrs. DEALLE, [REDACTED] or [REDACTED] have information or knowledge of the inquiry being made until the preliminary investigation had been completed. The Department also pointed out the possibility that War Production Board personnel in charge of the Paper Allotment Program might be illegally involved and suggested that information relating to the War Production Board action in this matter might best be obtained through [REDACTED] or [REDACTED], Office of the General Counsel, War Production Board.

War Production Board. [redacted] was interviewed at his office, [redacted] advised that the subject matter had been made available to him by New York Congressman JOHN W. McCORMACK. The letter had been given to McCORMACK by a JULIUS GOLDSSTEIN, an attorney with offices at 133 Broadway, New York City. Congressman McCORMACK told [redacted] that he considers GOLDSSTEIN absolutely reliable. According to [redacted] GOLDSSTEIN has represented several publishing firms before the War Production Board Appeals Board in cases where the publishing firms were seeking additional paper allotments.

On September 13, 1944, according to the records maintained by [redacted] the Ideal Publishing Company, of which [redacted] is [redacted] made an appeal before the War Production Board Appeals Board. The Compliance Division of the War Production Board made an investigation in New York City and Chicago because there was a variation in the statements of the printers used by the Ideal Publishing Company and the statements of the company itself as to the amount of paper used by the company in prior years.

67C [redacted] reported that this case was completed on November 21, 1944, and that the base period for future paper quotas was set up on the basis requested by the company. [redacted] stated that JULIUS GOLDSSTEIN had represented the Ideal Publishing Company in this case. It is, therefore, not considered advisable at this time to set out a lead to have Mr. GOLDSSTEIN interviewed because of his close connection with the Ideal Publishing Company.

Special Employee [redacted] examined the records of The Credit Bureau, 1321 G Street, N. W., and found the following information on MORRIS A. BEALLE, per a report dated November 22, 1944. BEALLE presently lives at 230 Peabody Street, N. W., is approximately 48 years of age, has one dependent child. His wife, FEGGY, was formerly employed by her husband in the Columbia Publishing Company, 1003 K Street, N. W., but at the present time works at the American Automobile Association, 17th and Pennsylvania Avenue, where she has served as a clerk since April 14, 1941. BEALLE is presently buying the residence in which he lives and has resided at that address since February, 1942.

Since sometime around September, 1944, BEALLE has had offices at 423 Washington Building, where he has set himself up as an author and publisher. His most recent work is a book entitled, "Washington Squirrel Cage". A previous book written by BEALLE is "Medical Huesolini". The "Washington Squirrel Cage" sells for $1.00 and is written anonymously. BEALLE formerly conducted the Columbia Publishing Company at 1003 K Street, N. W., where he published a magazine known as the "Plain Talk" magazine. This magazine was critical of the ROOSEVELT Administration.

Under previous activities of BEALLE included operation of the Washington Football Stadium in New York Avenue. Subject's credit record reflects several automobile loans and show collection items.

According to a clipping in the Washington Star on October 5, 1944, late issue of Newark, New Jersey, MORRIS A. BEALLE of Washington, was cited because of the contents of his book, the "Washington Political Dope". The plaintiff was one [redacted] of Jersey City, who sued BEALLE because his name was not mentioned in the book. The article stated that the book made reference to President ROOSEVELT as "Frankie the Klop"; to Vice-President WALLACE as "Crystal Gazing Papa"; to Attorney General BIDDLE as "Ray Middle Biddle"; to [redacted] as "Slippery Slim"; and to Supreme Court Justice FRANK [redacted] as "Hot Dog".

The records of Stone's Mercantile Agency, 1415 E Street, N. W., were checked by Special Employees [redacted] and the [redacted] contained the following additional information on MORRIS A. BEALLE. The report dated April 5, 1942, indicated that BEALLE had also written a book entitled "Positive of a Brain Gang". A financial statement dated March 15, 1942, gave his net worth to be approximately $12,000. This report indicated that BEALLE's aunt, EMILY FRANCES BEALLE, a retired government employee, lives with the subject.

b7C According to the records at Stone's Mercantile Agency, BEALLE was born in Washington, D. C., spent the first thirty years of his life in the District before going to North Carolina where he lived for about four years. BEALLE's occupation in his earlier years was that of a newspaper reporter but he was not employed by any particular company or paper. In July, 1927, he was employed by the Washington Times, a Hearst paper. Subsequent to this, he became editor of the Rockville Independent, the paper published at Rockville, Maryland. Beginning in 1931, he was connected with the "Plain Talk" Magazine, Inc., which was incorporated under laws of the State of Maryland, with an authorized capacity of $25,000. According to the credit report, this magazine was devoted to comments on political affairs and situations. (1)

On January 28, 1931, BEALLE together with one [redacted] and one [redacted], was [redacted] of an organization known as the National Chamber of Independent Merchants. The purpose of this organization was indicated to be the "mutual improvement of independent merchants". BEALLE was also a trustee, along with one [redacted] and [redacted] of the Iron Veterans, an organization for the "mutual improvement of the veterans of the United States". The latter organization was incorporated May 1, 1934. (2)

A newspaper clipping in the Washington Star issue of November 9, 1939, reflected that BEALLE, former editor of the Rockville, Maryland, (3)

Independent was under the Maryland Publishing Company of which [redacted] was president, leader and member of the Maryland House of Delegates, and president of the [redacted] The suit was for $75,000.

A Washington Post clipping dated April 30, 1939, stated that BEALL, together with three other editors of the Montgomery Independent, a Rockville, Maryland, newspaper, had been indicted by a Rockville County Grand Jury on charges of criminal libel. The other editors named with BEALL were HARRISON R. FRITCH, WALTER W. LLOYD, and WALTER S. CASEY. An article in the Washington Post of May 9, 1939, indicated the above indictment was based on charges appearing in the newspaper and alleging that Rockville County officials had "purloined" public funds and generally mismanaged county affairs. The indictment against BEALL and LLOYD was nolle prossed on May 9, 1939. LLOYD and BEALL were never actually taken into custody in connection with the above indictment.

The records of the National Better Business Bureau, Star Building, were checked by Special Agent [redacted]. In the file of MORRIS A. BEALL was a letter from the Buffalo office of the National Better Business Bureau regarding BEALL's publication of "Medical Mussolini". In a reply dated July 11, 1939, the Better Business Bureau of Washington, D. C., advised their Buffalo office that a superficial examination of this book had failed to disclose criticism of the Better Business Bureau. This letter stated that BEALL for sometime had been publishing the "Plain Talk" Magazine, a "and slinging publication"; that BEALL is a former newspaper and publicity man, having worked at one time for Hearst Publications. This letter of the Washington Better Business Bureau also included the statement that "BEALL is interested in anything that will make a dollar".

Included in the file of the Better Business Bureau, was an advertising throw-away consisting of a letter written to Liberty Magazine and appearing in its June 3, 1939 edition. This letter signed with the initials "J.B.B." congratulated [redacted] of Liberty Magazine on a recent editorial and article in the Liberty Magazine written by [redacted] on socialized medicine and the "monopolistic American Medical Association". This letter recommended to readers of Liberty, the book "Medical Mussolini"; which book according to the writer, "tells the inside story of the once idealistic American Medical Association" presently under the dictatorial rule of [redacted] "the wealthiest and most arrogant medical trust in history".

Other charges were made in the letter against [redacted] as to his motives, medical ability, etc. There was also contained in the file of a National Better Business Bureau, an advertising circular issued by BEALL stating that he had written "Socialized Medicine" as a seven year study of the subject and that he had been able to publish it only after a two year battle with medical and book trusts. Other information in the file of the National Better Business Bureau reflected that BEALLE at one time was a peddling man for a slandering promotion, known as "Furnished by the Sea"; that he had killed a lion and settled out of court with a political boss (possibly [redacted] to whom reference is made above).

Another letter in the file was written by BEALLE and addressed to [redacted] Washington Better Business Bureau, and requested information in the case of one [redacted] and this free lat racket in Baltimore, together with the apparent attempt of the Department of Justice to forget about this particular case.

An examination of the records maintained by the Clerk of Courts for the United States District Court of the District of Columbia, under Docket #78,183, reflected a $30,000 damage suit by BEALLE alleging slander against one ALFRED J. BOLLING, 18th and O Streets, N. W., on June 9, 1930. According to the records, BEALLE claimed that BOLLING caused him to lose his job with the Washington Times because he denied a story written by BEALLE in connection with the murder of one MARY BAKER. A demurrer was filed in this case on February 19, 1931. On July 26, 1932, the case was dismissed for failure on the part of the plaintiff to prosecute. (P)

Special Agent [redacted] ascertained from interview with [redacted] Democratic leader, and speaker of the Maryland House of Delegates, that the basis of the suit brought by BEALLE against [redacted] was a statement by [redacted] in [redacted] newspaper to the effect that BEALLE was a "blackguard". [redacted] stated he made this statement in response to a number of rash, slanderous statements made by BEALLE in a newspaper known as the "Independent", published at Silver Spring, Maryland. [redacted] explained that on the advice of his attorney and in order to save the time and expense of a trial, he had settled the suit by paying BEALLE "a couple of hundred dollars". [redacted] described BEALLE as a capable writer but absolutely without conscience as far as adhering to facts.

[redacted] of the Washington Times, advised Agent [redacted] that he knew BEALLE at one time was associated with and active in the Irish War Veterans organization. [redacted] also related that BEALLE at one time requested [redacted] to send a reporter "up on the Hill" for information concerning certain legislation which BEALLE alleged he was preparing or had prepared for a Congressman or Senator in connection with socialized medicine.

According to [redacted] of the Office of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Barr Building, the Irish War Veterans is a national organization composed of veterans of Wars of the United States, which veterans are of Irish descent. According to [redacted] the organization is rather small and its posts or chapters are located within the boundaries of the New England States. Information given [redacted] was obtained by Special Agent [redacted]

[redacted] War Production Board, was contacted with reference to this matter. [redacted] stated that he was unable to furnish any information which might be of value to the investigation but that he considered [redacted] Counsel for the Printing and Publishing Division of War Production Board, as entirely reliable and recommended that [redacted] be contacted in the matter. Before recommending [redacted] [redacted] contacted [redacted] Office of the General Counsel for the War Production Board. [redacted] agreed with [redacted] that [redacted] was reliable and could be contacted in the matter.

b7c [redacted] for the Printing and Publishing Division, War Production Board, 3106 Railroad Retirement Building, made available the file of his division on the Ideal Publishing Company. According to this file, on January 13, 1943, the attorneys for the company were OLCOTT, HAYES, WAHLEISS, and SMITH, 70 Pine Street, New York City. The Washington representative of this firm was one CHARLES B. MOINIS, who is located in the Transportation Building. During 1942, the Ideal Publishing Company published the following magazines:

- "Movie Life"
- "Movies"
- "Movie Star Parade"
- "Personal Romances"
- "Movie Life Year Book"
- "Fiction Magazine"

The [redacted] of the Ideal Publishing Company were [redacted] and his wife, [redacted] and [redacted] are also the [redacted] of the Dilbara Publishing Company, which company in 1942, published "Peek", "Peek Quarterly", and "Picture World".

The first activity in the file of the Ideal Publishing Company maintained by the Printing and Publishing Division of War Production Board, was an appeal for more paper on February 3, 1943. In order that the company might recoup their losses on "Personal Romances" and "Fiction Magazine", this appeal was made. This appeal was denied on February 24, 1943. On February 26, 1943, the company requested they be allowed to use the paper quota of the Bilbara Publishing Company on the publications of the Ideal Publishing Company. There was no indication in the file as to what decision was given on this request.

On April 21, 1944, [redacted] Magazine and Periodical Section, Printing and Publishing Division, pointed out in a letter to [redacted] that according to information from [redacted] submitted in February, 1943, 2352 tons of paper were used in 1943, whereas, in October, 1943, [redacted], Assistant to [redacted] indicated that 3116 tons of paper had been used in 1943. The matter was subsequently referred to the Compliance Division of War Production Board in order that this variation might be straightened out.

On July 7, 1944, Mr. JAMES CHASE sent a note to [redacted] of War Production Board, with the House of Representatives, requesting that War Production Board forgive the excess of paper used in 1943 by the Ideal Publishing Company and that the matter be dropped. The file also included a memorandum from [redacted] asking that copies of the reply sent the Ideal Publishing Company be furnished Congressman [redacted]

674 The findings of the Compliance Division of the War Production Board indicated difficulty arose from the Ideal Publishing Company's inability to obtain accurate paper usage figures from one of its printers in 1943, Noble Brothers of Mt. Morris, Illinois.

On November 1, 1944, by letter from [redacted] of Printing and Publishing Division, advised the Ideal Publishing Company that the method of calculation used up to July 1, 1944, had been approved but that thereafter a quota would be allowed the Ideal Publishing Company to be based on the reduced figures as reflected by sworn affidavits of their printers in 1943. On July 17, 1944, the Ideal Publishing Company again requested permission to consolidate the paper quotas of the Ideal Publishing Company and the Bilbara Publishing Company. In a reply of January 19, 1945, the War Production Board requested the tonnage figures for the full year 1944. There was no indication in the file as to the action taken on this last request of the Ideal Publishing Company.

[redacted] advised that the following men were the only ones whom he could recall as appearing most frequently before the War Production Board Appeals Board in requesting additional paper quotas for various publishers:

[redacted] and [redacted] of the Control Circulation Newspaper Association;

Representative of the United Typothetae of America;

formerly Assistant Attorney General and presently representing the J. S. Publishing Company and the Greeting Card Publishers of New York; and Judge J. RAYMOND TIFFANY, Counsel and Manager of the Book Manufacturers Institute, 25 West 43rd Street, New York City.

According to [redacted] he had heard from [redacted] of the Book Section, Printing and Publishing Division, War Production Board, that TIFFANY had made the statement that he could secure additional paper allotments for publishers. No lead is being set out to interview TIFFANY at this time but a lead is being set out to obtain further information from [redacted]

[redacted] related that he had heard rumors to the effect that certain people could obtain additional paper allotments from the War Production Board Appeals Board from [redacted] New York City, and from a [redacted] first name unknown, of the Colonial Press, Long Island, New York City.

As to the possibility that employees of the War Production Board may have been instrumental in securing additional paper allotments, [redacted] related that one [redacted] was reputedly asked to resign from the Appeals Board of War Production Board because there was some question about his activities on behalf of certain publishers.

[redacted] further related that [redacted] of the Specialized Printed Products Section and later in the Priorities Section of the Printing and Publishing Division, had been the object of suspicion because of certain unauthorized letters written by him to the Brown & Bigelow Printers, Minneapolis, Minnesota. [redacted] explained that while at the War Production Board, [redacted] had authority to write only two types of letters, request that appellants furnish more information and answers to questions, the answer to which was to be found in existing War Production Board orders. It was clearly understood that any interpretation of orders were to be made by the legal division and were to be signed by [redacted] War Production Board.

In the case of [redacted] the order concerned was to the effect that any printer who was producing directly for the Army did not need to charge paper so used against his quota. In the case of Brown & Bigelow, these printers went to the Army, obtained permission to use certain Army various building signs or calendars, playing cards, and greeting cards. A portion of the printed products were then turned over to the Army and Brown & Bigelow sold the balance of these items themselves.

██████████ in the early part of 1945, having no authority to do so, wrote a congratulatory letter to Brown & Bigelow and told them to consider the entire amount of paper used in this manner as "ex quota", or not to be charged to their regular paper quota. ██████████ wrote another letter to Brown & Bigelow telling them to ignore inventory ceiling specified in War Production Board orders. ██████████ stated that ██████████ also wrote a letter similar to the letter to the National Biscuit Company.

██████████ after leaving the War Production Board, obtained employment as the Washington representative of Brown & Bigelow Company and presently lives at the Dorchester Apartments. He is reported to receive a large salary from Brown & Bigelow in connection with his activities for them. The amount of paper which ██████████'s letters caused the government conservation program to lose is estimated by ██████████ to be about 2,000,000 pounds. At the time ██████████ sent the aforementioned letters, he was employed under ██████████ who is presently stationed in the Pentagon Building. ██████████ did not know if there were any written instructions or any other means to indicate that ██████████ had full knowledge that he was exceeding his authority in sending such letters to paper publishers. However, he is quite certain that ██████████ knew at the time what he had no authority in the matter.

An investigation of the matter was made by the War Production Board Compliance Division but the file of the Compliance Division could not be located at the time ██████████ was interviewed or on several subsequent occasions when the reporting agent contacted the War Production Board. However, ██████████ was certain the file would eventually be located and at that time make it available to the Bureau.

The confidential memorandum to ██████████ from ██████████ reflected that ██████████ at the time he was employed by the War Production Board, had two private business connections. The first with the Gilman Fanfold Corporation, of which ██████████ had been ██████████ for the Western and Southern divisions. After he had become connected with the War Production Board, ██████████ continued to receive a 3% over-riding commission on contracts obtained by salesmen under his supervision prior to the time he joined the War Production Board. He received a check of approximately $100 on the 1st and 15th of each month during the period of his employment by the War Production Board and during this period received a total of approximately $3500.

██████████ also told ██████████ that after joining the War

Production Board he continued to use airline tickets furnished him by the Gilman Landold Corporation in making weekend trips from Washington, D. C. to his home in Nashville, Tennessee. However, the expense of these tickets was deducted from the amount payable to him as an over-riding commission. [redacted] was also connected with the American Label Works Company and owned 50% of the stock of the corporation. However, after joining the War Production Board, he did not receive any remuneration from this company. When interviewed by [redacted] stated that it was likely that after leaving the government service, an adjustment would be made by the company for the profit made by it during the time [redacted] was working for the government.

A memorandum of September 15, 1942, from [redacted] to [redacted] War Production Board, referred to several matters in connection with [redacted] case. It pointed out that Brown & Bigelow, in addition to accepting the 2,000,000 pounds of paper to which they were not entitled, had failed to charge production waste and trim waste against its quota, although it included such waste in the computation of the paper consumption for the base period. [redacted] was unable to locate in the Printing and Publishing Division copies of the letters written by [redacted] to the Brown & Bigelow Company. An effort was made to find the letters, both in the regular files and the chronological files maintained by [redacted] was certain, however, that these letters would be available in the investigative file at the Compliance Division.

At the present time, Brown & Bigelow have appealed for 2,000,000 pounds of paper which they are being required to re-pay as a consequence of the paper used on the authorization of the letters sent them by [redacted]

[redacted] Appeals Board, War Production Board, 506-A, Railroad Retirement Building, was interviewed with reference to the circumstances under which [redacted] was asked to resign his position with the War Production Board. It will be noted above that [redacted] indicated that [redacted] resignation had been requested because of a bribe which he had accepted. According to [redacted] position with the War Production Board Appeals Board was that of an [redacted] $5600. [redacted] handled appeal cases as Docket Chief. The type of cases coming to [redacted] involved an appeal on any order on which authority had not been delegated to the division to make a grant.

According to [redacted] seemed very much interested in getting cases cleared from his docket regardless of the type of appeal. [redacted] did not believe that [redacted] efforts to obtain clearance of his cases varied

Martin King Asked for It (separating fact from fantasy)

Martin Luther King talked out of both sides of his mouth once too often. This Communist-trained professional race agitator talked about "non-violence" from one side of his mouth and the worst kind of real violence from the other---anarchy. Yet in millions of maudlin words, following his assassination while he was fanning riots in Memphis (Tenn), not once were the real facts given readers. And in none of the slobbering over King's passing from the turbulent race scene did the Johnsons and Kennedys and their imitators do anything but poll parrot the left wing and kept press myths.

King broke into the national picture a few years ago by leading agitation riots and telling Negroes they shouldn't obey any law they disliked. As late as the day before he stopped a murderer's bullet, he told the criminal element of Memphis Negrodom he wasn't going to obey any court order he didn't like. The Negro scum of Memphis took him at his word and staged useless and senseless riots---disobeying laws upholding law and order which they didn't like. They killed, burned and pillaged.

Sauce for the Gander---And a white man decided that sauce for the goose was sauce for the gander. He didn't like the laws against shooting public nuisances. He took the law he didn't like into his own hands. While no one can condone a murder of this sort, which was cowardly and brutal to say the least, few people were surprised. An extremist ran for Governor of Virginia last November, with no money, no organization, no background. He got one paragraph of publicity---a little squib stating "If elected Governor, I will pardon anyone who kills Martin Luther King on Virginia soil." From this one squib, published once, he got 6,012 votes. Enough said.

That senseless and destructive anarchy (called "riots" by our mediums of public misinformation) that followed the King "rub out" is hard to justify as resulting from the assassination. Chief sufferers from the arson and looting were the hard-working substantial middle class Negroes who lost their jobs, homes, furniture and all personal belongings. Some even lost their lives. About 5% only of Negroes in the "rioting" cities were involved, and they were the criminal elements.

King Paid by Communists---In the millions of words of sheep dip about the King Assassination, not a word has been said about his Communist associations, financing and affiliation, which show that his riots were part of the general plan of World Communism to conquer the United States by anarchy, internal chaos and bankruptcy. LBJ is taking care of the bankruptcy end. Martin Luther King was taking care of the anarchy feature. King took the course in Communist intrigue, hypocrisy, lying and contempt for law and order at the so-called Highlander Folk School in Monteagle, Tennessee.

A picture of King in his classes, seated between two notorious professional Reds, was published in two weekly newspapers, and publicized in CAPSULE NEWS (March 1966).

(Turn Over)

Back Our Boys in Viet Nam — but NOT Standard Oil

The openly segregationist-newspapers that published the picture were The Councillor (Shreveport) and The Thunderbolt (Birmingham). Shortly after the police broke up his riots in Birmingham, news dispatches told of King being rewarded with a payment of $100,000 by the Communist-oriented Ford Foundation and $32,000 by the outright Communist National Maritime Union. The NMU was exposed as a Communist unit by the House Committee on UN-American Activities and was kicked out of John L. Lewis' CIO.

J. Edgar Hoover---J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the FBI, called King "The most notorious liar in the United States." King made no effort to debate the question with the Head G-Man. He could have had a point by claiming Drew Pearson was (and still is) a bigger liar than he (King). Most people would agree with that.

Johnson Takes a Powder---In a maudlin play for the Negro vote (what good will it do him now?) Johnson cancelled his phoney "peace" talks in Hawaii to "attend the King funeral." This was unimportant since Ho Chi Minh has made it plain that only withdrawal of the Standard Oil protectorate in SE Asia will be considered by him. And that is the last thing Rockefeller Center will give Johnson permission to consider. But, if LBJ was a good American, and half a man, he'd quickly stop the slaughter of the innocents by calling the war off and bringing our shanghaied boys back home.

So, Johnson ran out on both his phoney "peace" talks and the King funeral. Some say White House mail contained thousands of threats to kill him. Instead of going to Atlanta the 12,000 troops who were brought into Washington to "quell the riots" had machine guns planted in dark corners of the White House grounds. And while they were guarding LBJ so closely they were defanged by his orders. They were forced to carry bulletless guns and padded bayonets, which the criminals were informed of by the press. Law enforcement in the nation's capital didn't exist.

Phooey on Texas Boys---Johnson shed copious crocodile tears over King's murder. But not a single tear over those 1,000-odd Texas boys he has sent to unnecessary deaths in Viet Nam. The day of LBJ's tear-jerking, Washington papers reported 81 death notices, something about normal for US cities of the same size. But Johnson wasn't concerned over a single one of these persons whose lives were as precious to them as King's was to him. Their deaths weren't caused by violation of the law, and preaching anarchy and violence.

King was in Memphis to get publicity for himself and the Communist program of destruction of America thru Anarchy. He was intruding in a strike of the Memphis garbage collectors, which the union was taking care of as well as could be. He declaimed to his dopey followers that he wasn't going to obey any court order to stop interfering with the union's activities. Thereupon, they started riots and civil disobedience. The matter got "hot" and King slunk down an alley and into hiding. When things cooled a little he came out of hiding but a white man who agreed with King's contempt of the law, took the law into his own hands. Period.

Inexcusable Bungling---If that's what it was. One hundred and ten cities were "attacked" by criminal mobs, fanned to white heat of arson and burglary by the King principles of non-compliance with law and order. In Washington alone insurance companies reported looting and arson losses of $50 million. Add to this millions of dollars in furniture and personal effects that went up in flames you have something to ponder. Also the eleven deaths of innocent people. City officials claimed they handcuffed police and troops because "human life is precious". They mean human life of criminals, not law abiding, hard working thrifty citizens, 90% of whom were Negroes of a much higher class and type than the looters.

In all cases of disaster, when troops are called out to stop looting, they stop it by shooting the looters. In Washington they encouraged the looting by hog-tying the troops. Negro criminals just laughed at them and took everything that wasn't nailed down. Local newspapers and T-V cameras showed pictures of hundreds of the looters "with the goods". Yet nothing has been done to apprehend them and get the "goods" back. The DC police did the best any human force could do, but were hamstrung by the echelons above them---all the way to the White House.

Arson Is A Capital Crime---When committed on an occupied dwelling. It is punishable by death. At least one of the victims of the senseless burnings was a hardworking substantial Negro citizen. He was trapped in his own apartment and burned to death, a painful way to die. Yet, halfwits in high places prated about "the preciousness" of human life--of criminals, that is. They showed no concern for the preciousness of the lives of hardworking upstanding citizens. Nor, of the property rights of these same good citizens who had spent many years of hard work accumulating it.

They proved this when they waited 5 hours after the looting and burning and killing started to call out the troops. Then they defanged them by taking bullets away, padding their bayonets and telling the criminals about it in press and T-V. 300 homes were destroyed by fire. 600 stores were first looted of everything movable and then burned. Over 2,000 respectable, decent Negroes were thrown out of work. The police did their best. They made over 4,000 arrests, more than half of burglars caught in the act. Yet the overworked police courts are being hamstrung by the "do-gooders" of the Administration. They are bringing pressure to reduce the felony charges to misdemeanors where the fines would be $10.

The Only Answer---Mayor Daley of Chicago is a realist. He knows you can't curb natural born criminals by encouraging them. So he is discouraging that kind of crime in Chicago. He gave orders to the police to shoot to kill arsonists, and shoot to maim burglars. Mayor Lindsay of New York, making a maudlin plea to the Harlem vote, said Mr. Daley had no compassion for the "preciousness" of human life. He made no mention of the criminals having no such compassion. Mayor Daley had compassion for law abiding citizens of Chicago of both races, and of all nationalities which are polyglot in the Windy City. In future Washington can expect 10 times as much disorder as Chicago.

Down in Raleigh (North Carolina) impudent Negro prisoners announced they were going to practically take over their hoosegow. They wanted this, that and the other thing, including more T-V programs. They then went to prove they'd seen too many TV programs, particularly with Martin Luther King as the "star". So, they refused to go back to their cells after supper. They began to riot, to attack guards and finally tried to burn down the penitentiary and murder 500 other convicts in their cells.

The warden stopped it in eight minutes, by turning machine guns on them. Six of the super-criminals were killed, 78 wounded. But in eight minutes it was over, with no guards killed and the fire put out. In Washington it took five days to stop the wholesale looting and burning. It was still going on sporadically as we go to press three weeks later. Chicago's Mayor Daley and North Carolina's warden make sense.

Future of Anarchy---Succeeding King as leader of the paper organization which the slain agitator hid behind, is the Rev. Abernethy. He is not a fire eater. There is no record of his having attended a Communist school for racial agitation and anarchy. But there are two others who will permanently pinch hit for King if our papers and T-V co-operate as they did with King's paymasters. Rap Brown may be written off after his trial in Maryland for inciting and fomenting riots, arson, burglary and murder in the Eastern Shore town of Cambridge.

The dangerous one is Stokeley Carmichael, whom the cowards in Washington are as afraid of as they are of Drew Pearson. Carmichael was guilty of barefaced insurrection two years ago. He was given "time" on a SE Asia radio. He urged all Negro soldiers in the US forces to desert the Army, come back "home" and burn down all the court houses in Mississippi. This was insurrection, punishable by death in wartime. Carmichael has been practicing practical insurrection and anarchy ever since.

Good For Mexico

By Morris A. Bealle, Editor

TIJUANA, MEXICO---Tijuana can be called the City of Hope for cancer patients who have not been victims of the last rites of the Medical Racket---radium. In our research here, we inspected a large number of case histories of cured and arrested cases of malignant cancer. Most of these were people who had virtually been condemned to death by orthodox medics after extracting the last possible dollar from their victims.

Our news gathering visit was prompted by the falsehoods printed by the Saturday Evening Post, written by a drug trust press agent in Rockefeller Center, New York. We did not need to visit Mexico to know that the US Food & Drug Administration employs professional perjurers to discredit all effective cancer treatments. We showed in the March number that their sworn "testimony" that the effective Koch Glyoxylide was mere "distilled water" was a barefaced lie.

We showed it by government records which the perjuring Food & Drug hoodlums, and the Satevepost "romancer", had as much access to as we. But we came down here to see if there was anything we had missed in the field of cancer cures and exploitation. And we showed in the April number that the Food & Drug hoods were taking money from drug trust firms to make the US FDA serve the "large drug companies" first, last and all the time.

Effective Cures---In Mexico, as in the other enlightened countries of the world, the government doesn't interfere with cancer cures. The reason, we found, is that no government, except the beknighted United States of America, is run by an Invisible Government the chief unit of which is a $10-billion-a-year racket known as the Drug Trust. This Drug Trust profits handsomely from the $7,000 it costs the average cancer victim to die in agony from "orthodox" medical treatments.

So, hundreds of Americans have found out about the cancer clinics here and have flocked across the border to be cured of cancer. The Sateve POST sheep dip, for instance, sent over 100 patients to the Bio Chemical Clinic, operated by Mrs. Mildred Cates Zamora. Mrs. Zamora learned to cure cancer by the Hoxsey method and some of these 100 patients are grateful to the Sateve POST. They are being cured.

Clearing House---There is an organization in San Diego, California (5525 El Cajon Boulevard) that refers all cancer victims who inquire to the three major clinics here. These are users of Koch Glyoxylide, Hoxsey's potassium-herb combination and Krebs' Latetrite. There is no Krebiozen clinic. Inquirers are referred to Dr. Ivy in Chicago. They are also referred for Mucorhizin to the Drosnes-Lazenby clinic in Pittsburgh which has been made inactive by the Food & Drug hoodlums with millions of dollars of taxpayers' money. This clinic was very successful, to our personal knowledge, with a wheat derivative.

Hoxsey---The Hoxsey treatment is given in a large, completely equipped clinic, on a towering hilltop in one of the best residential sections of Tijuana. Mrs. Mildred Zamora is running the show. The address is 611 General Ferreira Avenue. Cupid has played a large part in making the Hoxsey item available to all. Miss Cates fell in love with a Mexican business man and married him, thus making her immune from the pleas of the US hoodlums to Mexican authorities to "stop letting Americans get the money in Mexico". She is a citizen of Mexico and protected from foreign hoodlums by the Mexican government.

The Hoxsey treatment, which has a potassium base, is given orally. After a thorough clinical examination all ambulant patients (patients whom the medical jackals haven't succeeded in all but killing) are given a supply of this bio-chemical to take home, with instructions about taking it, and the proper diet to adopt. In addition to potassium iodide it has nine herbs, viz: burdock root, red clover, licorice, stillingia root, barberis root, poke root, cascara, prickly ash bark and buckthorn bark. How the healing properties of this combination was discovered by horses on the farm of Hoxsey's father, is a long story but makes plenty of sense. Horse sense, in this case.

Koch Glyoxylide---This cancer catalyst has a very substantial record of curing cancer, even terminal cases given up by the medical jackals, (Con't on Next Page) before the US Food & Drug hoodlums, acting for the Drug Trust, practically ran Dr. Koch out of the country. It is available at the Francisco Medical Dispensary, 1415-A Calle Lopez Lucio. This clinic is operated by a Mexican physician, Dr. F. J. Lopez-Morales, has four hospital rooms and treats the usual orthodox medical cases. Dr. Wendell C. Hendricks, long an associate of Dr. Koch, is medical consultant to Dr. Lopez-Morales.. Under Mexican law, an American doctor cannot practice except as post-graduate in a Mexican hospital, or with special permission from the Mexican Immigration Bureau. Cancer cases are handled---and handled successfully---by Dr. Lopez-Morales under Dr. Hendricks' direction.

When the Satevepost and Qk. Fishbein's throwaway sheet (Medical News Week) began to lie about the Tijuana cancer clinics, this newspaper printed the correct address of Dr. Hendricks so cancer victims could know where to go for consultation. Whereupon, the US Food & Drug Hoodlums, with characteristic pusillanimity, tried to hornswoggle the Mexican authorities into believing Dr. Hendricks was practicing American Medicine in Mexico without a Mexican license. But they didn't fool the Mexicans.

Dirty Blood---Duon H. Miller, famous blood chemist of Miami describes cancer very succinctly---dirty blood. Dr. Koch explained to us some years ago his treatment. It consists first of a cleaning regime to eliminate poisons from the bowels, and to cleanse the liver, kidneys and other vital organs by diet. This is accompanied by an injection of Koch Glyoxylide which acts as a catalyst (stepping up agent) to help restore the oxydation mechanism so that natural elimination is again enjoyed. As this takes place, any disease present leaves, since it cannot exist in a body whose oxydation mechanism is functioning as the Creator intended.

Rejuvenation Helps---Dr. Morales has an adequate supply of Glyoxylide. He also has a supplementary treatment for those who want it---cellular therapy. It is a rejuvenation agent invented and manufactured in Switzerland. This steps up the eliminative processes, reduces the toxin load, and thereby makes the patient look and feel measurably younger. Dr. Hendricks studied Cellular Therapy under Dr. Arthur Griffel in Zurich (Switzerland) in 1957. Dr. Griffel was a student of the Swiss doctor (Paul Niehans) who reputedly gave Pope Pius XII four additional years of life, and extended the existence of Prime Minister Churchill of England and Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany into the nonagenarian class.

Laetrile---The Laetrile is an enzymatic substance discovered by Dr. Ernest T. Krebs of San Francisco, but banned by the Food & Drug hoodlums for the usual reason---it cures cancer and reduces the profit spiral of the Drug Trust. It is administered in Tijuana by a Mexican physician, Ernesto Contreras in his clinic at 470 Agua Caliente Boulevard. It has the reputation of having cured a large percentage of Dr. Contreras' patients, particularly those who hadn't been given the last rites of the medical racket (radium) or wasted too much time getting "took" for all they put out to the medical jackals.

The Laetrile treatment, like all successful treatments for anything, goes back to Mother Nature. Its agent is obtained from the use of a beta-cyanogenetic glucoside named amygdalin, derived from apricot kernels.---When discovered in 1952 it was found to be too drastic for most humans. So, in 1929 Dr. Krebs' son (a biochemist) discovered and developed a corrective formula consisting of bendalzehyde, glucuronic acid and hydrocyanic acid.

Proven Cures---So, here we have three proven cures, and cures which are being effected right now across the Mexican Border, which the professional liars in Washington and Rockefeller Center use the sneer-phrase (Unproven Cures) in describing. The three types of treatment that can be had in Tijuana are Koch Glyoxylide, Hoxsey potassium base and Krebs' Laetrile.

Some proven cures that cannot be had in Tijuana are Krebiozen, Mucohicin, Lincoln Phage, the Max Gerson Treatment and the Frost Treatment. There are some others but these are the Major ones. All cures are dependent for their permanency on adherence to the diet laid down by the administering physicians.

Another Sour Pudding---The Hearst prostituted magazine GOOD HOUSEKEEPING has joined the ranks of Drug Trust propagandists. In its May issue the Drug Trust seeks to muddy the waters by calling all proven cancer remedies (and some unproven ones) "Unproven Cancer Cures". Unlike the recent hoax in the Saturday Evening POST, the Madison Avenue public relations expert who ground it out didn't sign it.

Red, White and Black

Feeling that Hubert Humphrey's chances of being elected President are comparable to those of the Oakland Athletics winning the 1968 world baseball championship, the Communist Party in America is attempting to launch a 4th ideology known as "The People's Party". The February edition of POLITICAL AFFAIRS, which lists itself as "the theoretical journal of the Communist Party, USA", says the black, white and red populations of the nation should unite in the creation of a new coalition called the People's Party. In breaking the story, the Allen-Scott Report says:

"Significantly, the new party is to be built on the same type of political coalition which Senator Robert Kennedy was trying to build with Martin Luther King before the latter's assassination in Memphis. This powerful coalition is to consist of anti-war, Negro, student and civil rights groups, the newly organized poor people and radical liberals from the present Democratic and Republican parties. The new party is to be built upon the radical crisis now consuming parts of America."

Black Shoe Polish---It has been known for sometime that, provided he couldn't shove McCarthy out of the way, Bobby Kennedy was preparing to launch a 4th Party, with himself as candidate for President and King for Vice President. Some have suggested that he carry a can of black shoe polish in his campaign kit, and apply it everytime he and King spoke to radical Negro audiences. But Bobby's future now is bleaker than ever, with the death of his running mate and the terrific clouting he took from Pennsylvania voters April 24th. He must completely revise his plans and strategy or hold a very large political gunny sack. This belief is strengthened by the CP journal's:

"The objective should be to unite the black communities politically, and to make full use of their strategic position in our cities. From such position of strength they can, in alliance with other minorities and progressive sections of the white population, struggle effectively for new levels of Negro representation and thereby drastically alter political relationships in the US."

Detergents Will Help---Bobby can help the drive for the white vote by carrying a powerful detergent in his campaign kit and washing the shoe polish off his face and hands before any of his white audiences can get on to it. With Bobby doing a white face act in the Senate, and using shoe polish in the ghettos, the People's Party Promoters believe an effective fight can be waged for black control of black communities with Federal, State and City agencies providing billions of tax dollars for rehabilitation and reconstruction of all black communities in the land. Optimistically, it continues:

"The coming to power of this new party is a prerequisite to basically changing our foreign policy, eliminate the ultra right danger and begin the reconstruction of our economic and social life. It is the condition for making some radical changes in the Negro's position in our society. A government based on the rule of necessity must be anti-monopoly in its policy, and must be prepared to take all the necessary measures to curb the power of Big Business over the life of the country."

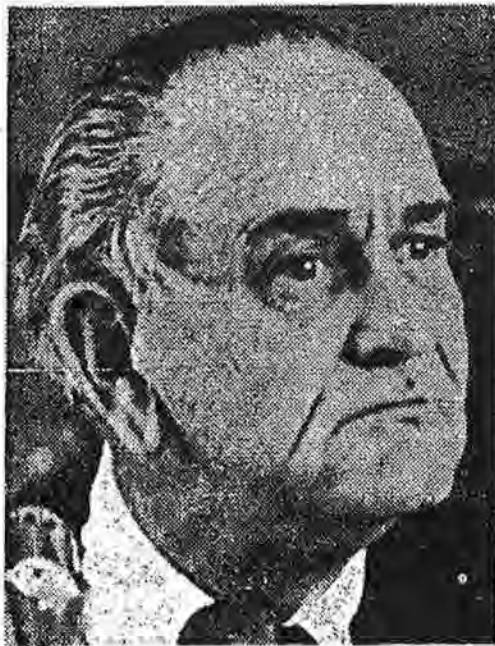

Confusion Over Viet Nam---While using the unrest over our senseless No-win War in Viet Nam as a plank in their confused program, the Communist leaders and agitators show as little knowledge of, and as much confusion over, the Viet Nam crime as do our leading Republican and Democratic Presidential hopefuls. First Nison, then McCarthy and later Kennedy showed they don't know the first thing about why our boys are being shanghaied and slain in those pestholes. And they haven't learned anything since.

Back Our Boys in Viet Nam — but NOT Standard Oil

What's On His Mind?

Few persons believe President Johnson has a conscience, but one look at this candid photo, snapped by a UPI news photographer, shows the most extreme unpleasant emotion we have ever seen on a public figure. It is the face of a man who is about to commit suicide. Of a man who has just committed political suicide by paralleling the historic Coolidge phrase "I do not choose to run in 1928". The Johnson disclaimer is somewhat different from the phoney "withdrawal" of Nelson Rockefeller whose sheepdip amounted to "I aint a-gonna run but please draft me". Nelson is running like all gitout right now.

But getting back to the photograph it isn't hard to see why Johnson's conscience is all but killing him. The strange part of it is that he didn't find it out three years ago. Johnson is a captive President, muscled into office by thousands of rigged voting machines made and serviced by a unit of Rockefeller Center. In return for being made President, he had to pledge to keep the war in Viet Nam going so that Standard Oil's drilling and refining operations in Southeast Asia would never be interfered with.

Escalation in Human Deaths--In less than a year of the Kennedy Administration 78 American boys were killed in our No-win senseless War in Viet Nam. Twenty were missing in action and 35 killed by the hypodermic needle and non-battle accidents. The injured totaled 218. In four years of Johnson escalation, the Pentagon's casualty report of March 28 shows 24,610 killed and nearly 100,000 wounded. In addition the Rockefeller-Johnson policies have upped the Federal debt from $309 billion to $358 billion---with nothing but those 25,121 needless and sickening deaths to show for it.

Is it any wonder that Johnson's conscience is killing him?

Nelson Rockefeller should feel even worse. Standard Oil is the foundation stone of the Rockefeller billion-dollar fortune which has made it unnecessary for the five Rockefeller Brothers to ever strive for a living, or even think for themselves. And possible for Nelson to buy the New York Governorship and try to buy the Presidency. But Nelson acts like the guy in the high school gags "Gee but it's great to be crazy." He doesn't seem to know what's going on about him except that he'll pay out anything that may be necessary to buy the Presidency.

Pot Calls the Kettle Black---In an uproarious convention session at Washington's National Press Club, the American Society of Newspaper Editors in a successful bid for publicity politely accused Mr. Johnson of being a liar. Their comical gag lines were "the credibility gap yawns wider in the Johnson Administration than it did in preceding regimes largely because the LBJ administration follows a policy of obscurantism for its own sake." Meaning LBJ is a bigger liar than Kennedy and Eisenhower put together.

Granting that this is 100% correct, and still only scratches the surface, look who's talking. The greatest collection of professional prostitutes the world has ever known are the 1,800 editors, and 1,800 odd advertising managers, of America's daily newspapers. With a $6-billion subsidy, disguised as an "advertising budget", every editor enjoying his share of this slush fund has to lie to his readers to such an extent, as Henry Mencken once said, that he cannot tell himself from an ordinary street walker.

In extenuation it must be said that any editor who "steps out of line" will lose 75% of his paper's advertising revenue. This would be fatal to 90% of them.

Dodd Hits Columnist Pearson as 'Monster'

Attack Follows Charge Senator Suppressed Study of TV Crime, Juvenile Delinquency

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas J. Dodd (D-Conn.) says that columnist Drew Pearson is "a monster... a devil... a molester of children who had the records of his arrest destroyed."

Pearson issued a statement saying Dodd "has completely distorted an incident," which he said occurred in 1915 and about which he had written in his column many times.

Dodd's attack followed publication of a column in which Pearson accused the senator of suppressing a Senate juvenile delinquency subcommittee study of the impact of television crime and violence on young people.

Calling the charge "blatantly false" Dodd said the proof was the release of the subcommittee's study on Oct. 27, 1964, after extensive hearings at which 56 witnesses were heard.

Tells of Release

"We released 10,000 copies of that report," he said in a Senate speech Thursday night.

The senator said that Pearson's column of Thursday, accusing him of having suppressed the report, showed him once again to be "an unmitigated and scandalous liar."

He told the Senate that Pearson himself is beyond comprehension in the depths to which he will sink and the outrageous lengths to which he will go to assassinate the characters of those whom he hates."

"Drew Pearson is a liar," he said. "He is a monster. Someday the American people will recognize it... His business is lying. He is a devil."

'Records Destroyed'

"It appalled me that he was honored as a Big Brother; a molester of children who had the records of his arrest destroyed. What is his strange power in this government?"

Dodd said he was going to have more to say about Pearson, adding that his patience was "at the breaking point" and he no longer was going to remain silent but was going to tell all he knows about the columnist and his associates.

"It is going to shock the Senate, it is going to shock this country, and it is going to shock the world," Dodd said. "I have some pretty good evidence."

Pearson said in his statement:

"Sen. Dodd has completely distorted an incident, which I have written about in my column many times, referring to an occasion in 1915 when I was arrested in Reidsville, N.C., for taking a bath after taking down a Chau-

"The arrest was on the charge of public bathing in the railroad yards and the judge, in acquitting me, stated publicly that a person had an obligation to be clean and, second, that the charge of obscene exposing of person was so broad that it could be misinterpreted by my future enemies. This is exactly what Sen. Dodd has done."

"Subsequently I was given a testimonial dinner by the people of Reidsville, where I continue to have many friends, and the people of Reidsville can testify to the incident, which I have told publicly on almost every occasion that I have visited North Carolina and have written about on April 5, 1943; Jan. 23, 1951; Jan. 29, 1952, and Nov. 15, 1957."

Importing Student Subversives

The State Department's Office of Security is trying to find out who leaked to Human Events a department memorandum approving entrance of foreign student revolutionaries into the United States. The department is apparently unhappy that its policy of admitting student subversives into this country was disclosed just prior to the Democratic National Convention in Chicago where youthful revolutionaries threw bricks and bottles at the police and tried to raise the Viet Cong flag over Grant Park.

KATZENBACH

Revealed on these pages on August 24, the proposals in this controversial document were drawn up by Deputy Under Secretary of State Charles (Chip) Bohlen and approved on August 1 by Under Secretary Nicholas Katzenbach.

The Bohlen-Katzenbach memo argued that radical leaders in France and West Germany would probably be invited into this country by leftist student leaders in the United States. "In the event that either Rudi Dutschke or Daniel Cohn-Bendit [both involved in student uprisings in Europe in the spring] are invited and accept," the memo continued, "the U.S. government will be faced with the question of approval or denial of visas for them. Both would require waivers. . . ."

After warning that students of this character could "stir up" trouble and "compare notes with U.S. leaders on techniques," the missive then strongly suggested that these youthful revolutionaries should be let into the United States anyway.

"The traditional stand for freedom of movement, expression and dialogue would certainly be held up against the Administration should these young leaders be refused admission," the memo stressed, and concluded that "the general encouragement of our government for informal contacts between U.S. and foreign youth leaders would point toward an exception by the attorney general for these individuals."

While Red Rudi and Cohn-Bendit have not yet entered the United States, other leftist revolutionaries are being granted visas in accord with the policy guidelines laid down by Bohlen and Katzenbach.
